OF

HENRY RUSSELL.

THE SHIP ON FIRE.

The Poetry by Dr. Mackay.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 718-18, Price 6d.

Quasi ad lib. ma Largamento.

The storm o'er the o-cean flew fu-rious and fast, And the waves rose in foam at the voice of the blast; And hea-vi-ly labour'd the gale-beat-en ship, Like a stout-heart-ed swimmer, the spray at her lip; And dark was the sky o'er the ma-ri-ner's path, Ex-cept when the light-ning il-lum'd it in wrath. A young mo-ther knelt in the ca-bin be-low, And press-ing her babe to her bo-som of snow, She pray'd to her God, 'mid the hur-ri-cane wild,—'Oh!

Fa-ther, have mer-cy, look down on my child! It pass'd;—the fierce whirlwind ca-reer'd on its way, And the ship like an ar-row di-vi-ded the spray; Her sails glim-mer'd white in the beams of the moon, And the winds up a- loft seem'd to whis-tle, to whis-tle a tune; And the winds up aloft seem'd to whistle, to whistle a tune. There was joy in the ship, as she furrow'd the

THE FOUNDING OF THE BELL.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 702-3, Price 6d.

Allegro Moderato.

Hark! how the fur-nace pants and roars! Hark! how the mol-ten me-tal pours, As, burst-ing from its i-ron doors, It glit-ters in the sun!

Now thro' the rea-dy mould it flows, Seeth-ing and hissing as it goes,— And fill-ing ev'-ry cre-vice up, As the red vin-tage fills the cup! Hur-rah!

. . . hurrah! the work, the work is done! Unswathe him now,—take off each stay That binds him to his couch of clay, And let him strug-gle in-to day; Let chain and pul-ley run, With yield-ing crank and stea-dy rope, Un-til he rise from rim to cope, In round-ed beau-ty, ribb'd in strength, Without a flaw in all his length. The clap-per on his gi-ant side Shall ring no peal for blushing bride, For birth, or death, or new-year-tide, Or fes-ti-val be-gun: A na-tion's joy a-lone shall be The sig-nal for his re-vel-ry; And for a na-tion's woes a-lone His me-lan-cho-ly tongue shall moan. Hurrah! hurrah! the work, the work is done!

Borne on the gale, deep-ton'd and clear,
 His long loud summons shall we hear,
 When statesmen, to their country dear,
 Their mortal race have run;
 When mighty monarchs yield their breath,
 And patriots sleep the sleep of death,—
 Then shall he raise his voice of gloom,
 And peal a requiem o'er their tomb!
 Speak low! speak low! the work is done!
 Should foemen lift their haughty band,
 And dare invade us where we stand,
 Fast by the altars of our land
 We'll gather ev'ry one;
 And he shall ring the loud alarm
 To call the multitudes to arm,
 From distant field and forest brown,
 And teeming alleys of the town;
 And, as the solemn boom they hear,
 Old men shall grasp the idle spear,
 Laid by to rust for many a year,
 And to the struggle run;
 And youths, from hills and dells afar,
 Shall rush, to mingle in the war;
 And maids have sweetest smiles for those Who battle with their country's foes.
 Hurrah! hurrah! the work is done!

And when the cannon's iron throat
 Shall bear the news to dells remote,
 And trumpet-blast resound the note
 That victory is won,
 While down the wind the banner drops,
 And bonfires blaze on mountain tops,
 His side shall glow with fierce delight,
 And ring glad peals from morn to night!
 Hurrah! hurrah! the work is done!
 But of such themes forbear to tell!
 May never war awake this bell,
 To sound the tocsin or the knell!
 Hush'd be th' alarm gun!
 Sheath'd be the sword, and may his voice
 But call the nations to rejoice
 That war his batter'd flag has fur'd,
 And vanish'd from a wiser world!
 Still may he ring when struggles cease,
 Still may he ring for joys' increase,
 For progress in the arts of peace,
 And friendly trophies won;—
 When rival nations join their hands,
 When plenty crowns the happy lands,
 When knowledge gives new blessings birth,
 And freedom reigns o'er all the earth—
 Hurrah! hurrah! the work is done!

MY MOTHER'S PORTRAIT.

The Poetry by Leigh Cliffe, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 720, Price 3d.

Andante Moderato.

There, there hangs the por - trait which fond - ly I prize, The pride of my heart, the delight of my eyes. My mo - ther, my mo - ther! I think oft, with tears, Of thy un - dy-ing fond-ness that grew with my years. Oh, how kind - ly she watch'd me, how pure was her love, And tho' proud as the ea - gle, she still was the dove. Deep and rich were her feel-ings, and anxious her care, And I bless her while view-ing that dear face there!

Off, off, when I gaze on those features so fair,
 As mild as an angel's, upraised in pray'r,
 I fancy her eyes beam with fondness on me,
 And my kind mother there, as in life, still I see,
 She is shrin'd in my heart, but, alas! with a tear

I bedew the fair semblance I worshipp'd so here,
 And turn from the world off, to utter a pray'r,
 And to look, unobserv'd, on that dear face there!

Sweet mother, in childhood you cradled my head,
 And I pillow'd thine when thou slept with the dead.
 All, all my heart's treasures were center'd in thee,
 And for aye unforgetten thy mem'ry will be.
 The soft sweet voice that bless'd me falls now on mine ear,
 And the hands that caress'd me seem still to be near.
 Tears shame not a man when a tear aids the pray'r
 That I breathe for the peace of that dear face there!

WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 228, Price 6d.
Con Anima.

We have faith in old proverbs full sure-ly, For wisdom has trac'd what they tell, And truth may be drawn up as pure - - ly From them as it may from a well. Let us ques - tion the think - ers and do - ers, - - And hear what they ho - nest - ly say, And you'll find they be-lieve, like bold woo-ers, In where there's a will there's a way.

The hills have been high for man's mounting,
The woods have been dense for his axe,
The stars have been thick for his counting,
The sands have been wide for his tracks;
The sea has been deep for his diving,
The poles have been wide for his sway,
But bravely he's proved, in his striving,
That where there's a will there's a way.
Have ye poverty's pinching to cope with?
Does suffering weigh down your might?
Only call up a spirit to hope with,
And dawn may come out of the night.

Oh! much may be done by defying
The ghosts of despair and dismay,
And much may be gain'd by relying
On where there's a will there's a way.

Should you see that far off worth winning,
Set out on the journey with trust,
And ne'er heed if you at beginning,
Should be among brambles and dust:
Though it is but by footsteps ye do it,
And hardships may hinder and stay,
Keep a heart, and be sure you'll get through it,
For where there's a will there's a way.

THE GIN FIEND.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 553-4, Price 6d.
Allegro con Anima.

The Gin Fiend cast his eyes abroad, And look'd o'er all the land, And number'd his my-riad wor-ship-pers With his bird-like long right hand. He took his place in the teem-ing streets, And watch'd the peo-ple go A - round and a - bout, With a buzz and a shout, For ev - er to and fro. And it's 'Hip!' he said, 'hip! hip! bur-ra! For the mul-ti-tudes I see, Who of-fer them-selves in sa - cri - fice, And die for the love of me!

There pass'd a man in the crowded way,
 With eyes blood-shot and dim ;
 He wore a coat without a sleeve,
 And a hat without a brim ;
 His grimy hands with palsy shook,
 And fearfully he laugh'd,
 Or drivell'd and swore,
 As he clamour'd for more
 Of the burning poison-draught.
 And it's ' Hip !' said the Gin Fiend, ' hip ! hurra !
 Success to him over his bowl ;
 A few short months have made him mine—
 Brain, and body, and soul !'
 There sat a madman in his cell,
 Palm-clench'd, with lips compress'd—
 God's likeness blotted from his face,
 And fury in his breast.
 There sat an idiot, close beside,
 With a dull and stolid leer,
 The apathy of his heavy eye
 Warming at times to fear.
 And it's ' Hip !' said the Gin Fiend, ' hip ! hurra !
 These twain are wholly mine ;
 The one a demon, the other a beast—
 And both for burning wine !'
 There stood a woman on a bridge ;
 She was old, but not with years ;—
 Old with excess, and passion, and pain ;
 And she wept remorseful tears.
 And she gave her baby her milkless breast,
 Then, goaded by its cry,

Made a desperate leap in the river deep,
 In the sight of the passers-by.
 And it's ' Hip !' said the Gin Fiend, ' hip ! hurra !
 Let them sink in the friendly tide ;
 For the sake of me the creature liv'd—
 To satisfy me she died.'
 There watch'd a mother by her hearth,
 Comely, but sad and pale ;
 Her infant slept, her lord was out,
 A quaffing of his ale.
 She stay'd his coming ; and, when he came,
 His thoughts were bent on blood ;
 He could not brook
 Her taunting look,
 And he slew her where she stood.
 And it's ' Hip !' said the Gin Fiend, ' hip ! hurra !
 He does his duty well ;
 And he pays the tax he owes to me,
 And the monarchy of hell.'
 And ev'ry day, in the crowded way,
 He takes his fearful stand,
 And numbers his myriad worshippers
 With his bird-like long right hand ;
 And ev'ry day his victims feast
 Before his flashing eyes ;—
 And ev'ry night, before his sight,
 Are offer'd in sacrifice.
 And it's ' Hip !' he says, ' hip ! hurra !
 For the deep up-frothing bowl,
 Which gives me victims that I crave,—
 Brain, and body, and soul.'

THE PAUPER'S DRIVE.

The Poetry by T. Noel, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 78-9, Price 6d.

Moderato con Anima.

There's a hearse with one horse in a jol-ly round trot; To the churchyard a pauper is going, I wot; The road it is rough, and the hearse has no springs, And hark to the dirge that the sad dri-ver sings :

Risoluto con Giocoso.

Rat-tle his bones o-ver the stones; He's on-ly a Pau-per that no-bo-dy owns !

Rat-tle his bones o-ver the stones; He's on-ly a Pau-per (Ha! ha!) that no-bo-dy owns !

Oh, where are the mourners ?
 Abs ! there are none ;
 He has left not a gap in the world now he's gone ;
 Not a tear in the eye of child, woman, or man !
 To the grave with his carcase as fast as you can !
 ' Rattle his bones,' &c.

What a jolting and creaking, and splashing and din !
 The whip, how it cracks ! and the wheels, how they spin !
 How the dirt, right and left, o'er the hedges is hurl'd !
 The Pauper at length makes a noise in the world !
 ' Rattle his bones,' &c.

Poor Pauper defunct ! he has made some approach
 To gentility, now that he's stretch'd in a coach ;
 He's taking a drive in his carriage at last ;
 But it will not be long, if he goes on so fast !
 ' Rattle his bones,' &c.

But a truce to this strain, for my soul it is sad,
 To think that a heart in humanity clad Should make, like the brutes, such a desolate end,
 And depart from the light without leaving a friend !
 Bear softly his bones over the stones ;
 Though a Pauper, he's one whom his Maker yet owns !

THE OLD ARM-CHAIR.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 505-6, Price 6d.

Andante con Expressione.

I love it, I love it, and who shall dare To chide me for lov-ing that old arm-chair; I've treasur'd it long as a ho - ly prize, I've be-dew'd it with tears, I've em-balm'd it with sighs; 'Tis bound by a thou-sand bands to my heart; Not a tie will break, not a link will start. Would ye learn the spe'l,—a mo-ther sat there, And a sacred thing is that old arm-chair.

In childhood's home, I linger'd near
The hallow'd seat with list'ning ear;
And gentle words that mother would give,
To fit me to die, and teach me to live.
She told me shame would never betide,
With truth for my creed, and God for my guide:
She taught me to lisp my earliest pray'r,
As I knelt beside that old arm-chair.

I sat and watch'd her many a day,
When her eye grew dim, and her locks were gray;
And I almost worshipp'd her when she smil'd,
And turn'd from her Bible to bless her child.

Years roll'd on, but the last one sped—
My idol was shatter'd, my earth-star fled:
I learn'd how much the heart can bear,
When I saw her die in that old arm-chair.

'Tis past! 'tis past! but I gaze on it now
With quivering breath and throbbing brow;
'Twas there she nurs'd me, 'twas there she died,
And mem'ry flows with lava tide.
Say it is folly, and deem me weak,
While the scalding drops start down my cheek;
But I love it, I love it, and cannot tear
My soul from a mother's old arm-chair.

THERE'S ROOM ENOUGH FOR ALL.

The Poetry by E. L. Blanchard, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 507-8, Price 6d.

Allegro Moderato.

What need of all this fuss and strife, Each war - ring with his bro-ther? Why need we, through the crowd of life, Keep trampling on each o - ther? Is there no goal that can be won With - out a squeeze to gain it, No o - ther way of get - ting on, But scrambling to ob - tain it? Oh! fel - low men, re-mem-ber then, What - ev - er chance befall, The world is wide in lands beside—There's room e-nough for all.

What if the swarthy peasant find
No field for honest labour?
He need not idly stop behind,
To thrust aside his neighbour!
There is a land with sunny skies,
Which gold for toil is giving,
Where ev'ry brawny hand that tries
Its strength can grasp a living.
Oh! fellow men, remember then,
Whatever chance befall,
The world is wide;—where those abide,
There's room enough for all!

From poison'd air ye breathe in courts,
And typhus-tainted alleys,
Go forth, and dwell where health resorts,
In rural hills and valleys;
Where ev'ry hand that clears a bough
Finds plenty in attendance,

And ev'ry furrow of the plough
A step to independence.
Oh! hasten, then, from fever'd den,
And lodging cramp'd and small:
The world is wide in lands beside.—
There's room enough for all!

In this fair region far away,
Will labour find employment—
A fair day's work a fair day's pay,
And toil will earn enjoyment!
What need, then, of this daily strife,
Each warring with his brother?
Why need we in the crowd of life
Keep trampling down each other?
Oh! fellow men, remember then,
Whatever chance befall,
The world is wide;—where those abide,
There's room enough for all!

THE SONG OF THE SCAFFOLD.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 564, Price 3d.

Allegro Moderato.

Hark to the clink - ing of ham - mers, Hark to the driv - ing of nails, — The men are e - rect - ing a scaf - fold In one of her Ma - jes - ty's jails. A life, hu - man life's to be ta - ken, Which the crowd and the hangman hail; Oh, the men are e - rect - ing a scaf - fold In - side of her Ma - jes - ty's jail!

'Tis midnight, without its deep silence,—
The doom'd wretch in agony moans;
But the clattering still of their hammers
Is drowning the poor victim's groans.
The chaplain now earnestly prayeth
To the God of all mercy for him;
But his mind on his misery strayeth,
For his cup is full up to the brim.

The good man is still o'er him bending,
And trying to teach him to pray;
For the last night on earth is now ending,
And the moments fly quickly away.
But the clinking still of these hammers,
And the driving in of the nails;—
Oh how can he bear it with patience?
Can we wonder his reason fails?

'Oh, pray while you may to your Maker,
His mercy, not justice implore.'
Said the priest, while hot tears fill'd his eyelids,
And his chok'd voice could utter no more.
'You ask me to pray,' said the felon,
'But no one e'er show'd me the way;
'Tis too late, 'tis too late now to teach me,—
I can't understand what you say.'

Hush! hark! for the death-bell is tolling!
The gallows at last is in view!
The pris'ner, pale, ghastly, and sinking,
To the chaplain has wav'd an adieu.
His frame now with agony quivers,
His strong breast how wildly it heaves!
His hands, oh, how closely they're pinion'd!
The hangman himself almost grieves.

Hush! for the death-bell is tolling,
Dragoons with drawn swords are below;
And the pris'ner appears to be praying,—
'Tis a scene of heart-anguish and woe.
There are crowds in the street, men and women;
The war-steeds are prancing about;
The windows are throng'd with spectators;
Hark! a buzz, and a move, and a shout!

The rope round his neck is adjusted,
(Man's vengeance, how fearful thou art!)
His head now is cover'd, and horror
Strikes every man to the heart.
The dread bolt is drawn! he is plunging
In air—what a horrible tale!
His soul has been borne to its maker,
His corpse taken back to the jail!

LESS THAN A MAN.

fall as best they may; Then is a man less than a man;
tempo adagio.
Then we pi-ty him, then we pi-ty him, then we pi-ty him, all we can.

When is a man less than a man?
When he makes a vow he fails to keep;
When without sowing he would reap;
When he would borrow, beg, or steal,
Sooner than work for an honest meal;—
Then is a man less than a man;
Then we pity him all we can.

When is a man less than a man?
When, by misfortune, stricken down
He whines and maudles through the town,
But never lifts his strong right arm
To save himself from further harm;—
Then is a man less than a man;
Then we pity him all we can.

When is a man less than a man?
When he acts the coward's part,
When he betrays a woman's heart,
And scorns, illuses, and deceives
The love that lingers and believes;—
Then is a man less than a man;
Then we pity him all we can.

When is a man less than a man?
When he takes delight in raising strife;
When he values honour less than life,
When he insults a fallen foe,
Or at a woman aims a blow;—
Then is a man less than a man;
Then we pity him all we can.

THE LITTLE GAY DECEIVER.

Moderato.

There was a lit-tle maid, And she wore a lit-tle bon-net, And she had a lit-tle fin-ger, with a lit-tle ring up-on it; And what's a lit-tle odd, her lit-tle heart was then In love (but not a lit-tle) with the best of lit-tle men.
For the little youth had exercis'd his little flatt'ring tongue,
And down before her little feet his little knees he flung;
He press'd her little hand, and in her little face he gaz'd,
And look'd as though his little head had been a little craz'd.
Alas! her little lover did with little warning leave her,

And she found him little better than a 'Little Gay
Deceiver;'
Then, in a little moment, stifling all her little wishes,
She took a little jump—all among the little fishes!
Now, all you little maidens, whose little loves grow fonder,
Upon the little moral of this little song do ponder;
Beware of little trinkets, little men, and little sighs,
For you little know what great things from little things may rise.

untax'd land, If you va-lue still their lives. Stitch, stitch, stitch! But let it no longer be said, They're sewing a shroud as well as a shirt With the self-same needle and thread.'

'Oh, think no more of death, That phantom of gris-ly bone, Whose shrunken form and

THE MOTHER WHO HATH A CHILD AT SEA.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 595, Price 3d.
Con molto Espressivo.

There's an eye that looks on the swell-ing cloud, Fold-ing the moon in a fun'-ral shroud, That watches the stars dy-ing one by one, Till the whole of Heav'n's calm light hath gone; There's an ear that lists to the hiss-ing surge, As the mourner turns to the an-then dirge. That eye! that ear! oh, whose can they be, But a mother's who hath a child at sea!

There's a cheek that is getting ashy white
As the tokens of storm come on with the night;
There's a form that's fix'd on the lattice pane.
To mark how the gloom gathers o'er the main,
While the yeasty billows lash the shore,
With loftier sweep and hoarser roar;
That cheek! that form! oh, whose can they be,
But a mother's who hath a child at sea!

She presses her brow, she sinks and kneels,
Whilst the blast howls on, and the thunder peals:
She breathes not a word, for her passionate prayer
Is too fervent and deep for her lips to bear;

It is pour'd in the long convulsive sigh,
In the straining glance of an upturn'd eye;
And a holier offering cannot be,
Than a mother's who hath a child at sea!

Oh, I love the winds when they spurn control,
For they suit my own bondhating soul:
I like to hear them sweeping past,
Like the eagle's pinions, free and fast;
But a pang will rise with sad alloy,
To soften my spirit and sink my joy,
When I think how dismal their voices must be,
To a mother who hath a child at sea!

THE SLAVE AUCTION.

The Poetry by E. L. Blanchard, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. C45, Price 3d.
Moderato e Marcato.

Hark! 'midst the roar of an ea-ger crowd, For one dark pur- pose blend-ing, The cry of a help-less mul-ti-tude Is thence in pray'r as-cend-ing; And ne-gro forms are ga-ther'd round, Their cheeks with hot tears stream-ing, Their limbs in i-ron shac-kles bound, Their minds as fet-ter'd seem-ing.
Con Espres.
'O! give us back our Rights,' they pray, 'That man from man has ri-ven, That Free-dom which is your's to-day, Our Birth-right, held from Hea-ven!

The sale is on—and men begin
To sell their fellow creatures;
Yet he who made the whiter skin
Made those with darker features.
A premium on the stout and strong,
A tax on bone and sinew;
O! men with human hearts, how long
Shall this foul trade continue!
'O! give us back our Rights,' &c.

A child is from its mother torn,— Hark! hear that shriek distressing!
A parent's nightly blessing.
Another!—and the tend'rest ties
Of life are rent asunder;—
Hath heav'n, in echo to those cries,
No crime-avenging thunder?
'O! give us back our Rights,' &c.

The sale proceeds—a loving wife
They from her husband sever;
But, ere the bargain's seal'd, a knife
Annuls the bond for ever!
The man, self-slaughter'd, yields his breath—
The wife dies broken-hearted!

Far happier to be join'd in death,
Than both in slav'ry parted.
'O! give us back our Rights,' &c.

'Who bids,' none care—the shrieks are drow'd
Beneath the auction's clamour;
They reach not those who hear no sound
Beyond the salesman's hammer;
Still louder grows the din around,
The biddings follow faster,
Till ev'ry slave at last has found
A tyrant, call'd a master.
'O! give us back our Rights,' &c.

O! let us hope the day is near,
The dawn of brighter ages,
When slaves and slav'ry shall appear
But names in hist'ry's pages;
That man 'gainst man may ne'er combine,
In this inhuman manner,
And ev'ry star shall brighter shine
Upon the spangled banner!
Yes, let us hope that what we pray
To us may soon be given;
When all men shall be free as day,
That freely flows from Heaven!

THE WORLD IS ON THE MOVE.

The Words by E. L. Blanchard, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 513-14, Price 6d.

Con Spirito.

The world is on the move, Look a - bout, look a-bout; There is much we may improve, Do not doubt, do not doubt; And, for all who un - derstand, May be heard, throughout the land, A warn-ing voice at hand, Ring-ing out, ring-ing out.

Though gloomy hearts despond,
At the sky, at the sky,
There's a sun to shine beyond,
By and by, by and by.
Ere the vessel that we urge Shall beneath the surface merge,
A beacon on the verge
Shall be nigh, shall be nigh.

Step by step, the longest march
Can be done, can be done;
Single stones will form an arch,
One by one, one by one:
And, with union, what we will
Can be all accomplish'd still,— Drops of water turn a mill,
Singly, none! singly, none!

Brag and bluster float as froth,
O'er the wave, o'er the wave;
Gory treason, worse than both,
Fools may rave, fools may rave;

But the honest hands that link,
With the solemn heads that think,
And for pikes use pen and ink,
Are the brave, are the brave!

Let us onward, then, for Right,—
Nothing more, nothing more;
And let justice be the might
We adore, we adore.
Build no hopes upon the sand;
For a People hand in hand
Can make this a better land
Than before, than before.

Our country bless'd with all,—
Look around, look around;
No tyranny nor bloodshed
Here is found, here is found;
So, with heart and voice we'll cheer,
The Queen we love so dear;
Let her reign in peace, not fear
From those around, those around.

THE MINSTREL OF THE TYROL.

The Poetry by Jonas B. Phillips, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 174, Price 3d.

Allegro e con Anima.

From his mountain land, with his harp in hand, Came a min-strel youth right mer-ri-ly, And he sang the lays of his boyhood's days, When the light of hope shone chee-ri-ly, When the light of hope shone chee-ri-ly. He sang the tales of his na-tive vales, And of his fa-ther's bra-very; Then with pride he told how his kinsmen bold Fell no-bly, ere yield to slavery. Oh!

Mi a gallant throng did that son of song

And a tear-drop came as he breath'd the name

Tune his harp, but not so merrily,

Of the maid of his soul's devotion.

For his thoughts would roam to his distant home,

Oh! 'mid a gallant throng did that son of song

To the green hills smiling cheerily.

Tune his harp, but not so merrily,

With trembling hand, of his father land,

For his thoughts would roam to his distant home,

He sang with such deep emotion;

THE RUSHLIGHT.

Poetry by Eliza Cook; Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

O! scorn me not as a fame-less thing, Nor turn with con-tempt from the song I sing: 'Tis true, I am not suf-fer'd to be On the ring-ing board of was-sail glee; My pal-lid gleam must ne-ver fall

In the gay sa-loon or lord-ly hall; But ma-ny a tale does the rush-light know Of se-cret sor-row and lone-ly woe.

I'm found in the closely curtain'd room,

She mournfully trims my slender wick,

Where a stillness reigns that breathes of the tomb—

As she sees me fading and wasting quick;

Where the breaking heart and heavy eye

And many a time has my spark expir'd,

Are waiting to see a lov'd one die—

And left her still the weeping and tir'd.

Where the dotting child with noiseless tread

Many a lesson the bosom learns

Steals warily to the mother's bed;—

Of hapless grief while the rushlight burns;

I'm wildly snatch'd, and my glimmering ray

Many a scene unfolds to me

Shows a glazing eye and stiff'ning clay.

That the heart of mercy would bleed to see.

I am the light that quivering flits

Then scorn me not as a fameless thing,

In the joyless home where the fond wife sits,

Nor turn with contempt from the song I sing;

Waiting the one that flies his hearth,

But, smile as ye will, or scorn as ye may,

For the gambler's dice and drunkard's mirth:

There's naught but truth to be found in my lay.

THE HAPPY DAYS OF CHILDHOOD.

The Poetry by George Pendrill; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Andante Affettuoso.

I've wan-der'd oft in child-hood, With playmates blithe and gay, O'er flow' - ry field and mea-dow, And ga - ther'd sweets of May;— We've sport - ed 'neath the elm tree that grew be - side our cot;— O! the hap - py days of child - hood can ne - ver be for - got.

How well I can remember
The sports we us'd to play,—
So dear are they to memory,
It seems but yesterday;
And oft I sport, in fancy,
Within the self-same spot;—
O! the happy days of childhood
Can never be forgot.

And oftimes, in my slumber,
Methinks that I am near Those ever fond below'd ones,
'n childhood's home so dear;

But, waking from that slumber,
How chang'd I find my lot;—
O! the happy days of childhood
Can never be forgot.

Then bless the steps of childhood,
And let their sports be gay,
That they, at least in memory,
May live to bless the day
When they were blithe and happy,
In palace or in cot;—
O! the happy days of childhood
Can never be forgot.

THE CHIEFTAIN'S DAUGHTER.

The Poetry by G. P. Morris, Esq.—The Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Andante.

Up - on the bar - ren sand, A sin - gle cap - tive stood; A - round him came, with bow and brand, The Red Men of the wood; Like Him of old, his doom he hears, Rock - bound on o - cean's rim:— The chief - tain's daugh - ter knelt, in tears, And breath'd a pray'r for him.

The savage war-club swung;—
The frantic girl, in wild despair,
Her arms about him flung.
Then shook the warriors of the shade,
Like leaves on aspen limb:—
Subdued by that heroic maid,
Who breath'd a pray'r for him!

'Unbind him!' gasp'd the chief
'It is your king's decree!
He kiss'd away her tears of grief,
And set the captive free.
'Tis ever thus, when, in life's storm,
Hope's star to man grows dim,
An angel kneels, in woman's form,
And breathes a pray'r for him.'

I LOVE THE NIGHT.

Words by G. P. Morris ; Music by Henry Russell.—Published by Davidson.

 moon or star, Or flow'rs of gau-dy hue, Or gurgling trills of moun-tain rills, I love, I love, love you ! I love, I love, I love, I love, love you ! I love, I love, I love, I love, love you !

I love to stray, at the close of the day,
 Through groves of linden-trees ;
 When gushing notes from song-birds' throats
 Laden the perfum'd breeze ;

I love the night, the glorious night,
 When hearts beat warm and true ;
 But, far above the night, I love,
 I love, I love, love you !

SO YOUNG AND SO LOVELY.

Composed by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Andante Moderato.

So young and so love-ly, so wise yet so kind—She has gone, she has left me with sad-ness be-hind ; The hope of my life from my fond arms is torn, And alone in the world I must now wander on. O ! El-len, fond mem-ry recalls the delight, When, like the fair moon, you il-lu-min'd my night— I see thee, O !
 lov'd one—I see thee a-gain, And the vi-sion but brings back the plea-sure of pain.

I see thy bright form, and thy face, once so fair,
 And the pearls made more white by thy raven black hair ;
 I see thee in joy, on thy lip the bright smile
 Of love and of beauty, so thoughtless of guile ;
 I see thy pure thoughts as in sparkles they rise
 From thy fair spotless soul to thy beautiful eyes ;
 I hear thy low voice, and its sweet gushing thrill,
 As it charm'd and enchain'd my fond heart to its will.

I see thee, I hear thee, I feel thy soft kiss,
 And madness succeeds to the mem'ry of bliss ;
 She has gone, she has left me alone and to mourn,
 From the fading of day to the flush of the morn ;
 But, O ! while my thoughts can rove back to the past,
 Fond mem'ry will bid me love on to the last ;
 But O ! while my thoughts can rove back to the past
 Fond mem'ry will bid me love on to the last !

MY OLD WIFE.

The Poetry by Jonas B. Phillips, Esq. ; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato con Espres.

Old Time has dimm'd the lus-tre of her eyes that brightly shone, And her voice has lost the sweetness of its girl-hood's sil-v'ry tone; But her heart is still as cheer-ful as in ear-ly days of life, And as fond-ly as I priz'd my bride, I love my dear old wife.

When the spring of life was in its bloom, and hope gave zest to youth, [of truth ;
We at the sacred altar stood, and plighted vows
And since, though changeful years have pass'd, with joys and sorrows rife, [wife.
Yet never did I see a change in her, my good old
Her gentle love my cares hath sooth'd, her smiles each joy enhanc'd, [advanc'd ;
As fondly through progressive years together we've

Though calmly now the current flows, we've known misfortune's strife, [old wife.
Yet ever did she cheer my woes, my faithful, fond And ever since that joyous day I kiss'd her as my bride, [my side ;
In joy or sorrow, calm or storm, I've found her at
And when the summons from above shall close the scene of life, [old wife.
May I be call'd to rest with thee, my good, my dear

THE OLD MILL-STREAM.

Poetry by Eliza Cook; Music by Henry Russell.—Published by Davidson.

Andante con Espress.

Beau - ti - ful streamlet! How pre - cious to me Were the fields and the wild blos - soms wa - ter'd by thee! I think of thee oft, as thou wert in my youth, and thy rip - ple still murmurs with freshness and truth. Beau - ti - ful streamlet! I dream of thee still, Of thy will not de - part, For thy wa - ters seem blent with the streams of my heart.

What pleasure it was to spring forth in the sun,
 When the school-door was op'd, and the lessons were done; [the call,
 When, 'Where shall we play?' was the doubt and
 And, 'Down by the mill-stream' was echo'd by all.
 How I lov'd the green spot where my fairy ship laid, [shade!
 And the perch with its golden back slept in the
 How I lov'd the tall rushes that grew by its side,
 And the cress and the nily-cup kissing its tide!

Home of my youth, if I go to thee now,
 None can remember my voice or my brow;—
 None can remember the sunny-fac'd child
 That play'd by the wa - ter - mill joyous and wild.
 Beautiful streamlet! I sought thee again,
 And the changes that mark'd thee awaken'd deep pain!
 Desolation had reign'd—thou wert not as of yore—
 Home of my childhood! I'll see thee no more!

BELIEVE NOT THE TALES THEY HAVE TOLD THEE OF ME.

Poetry by Leigh Cliffe; Music by Henry Russell.
Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.Andante Affetuoso.

Be - lieve not the tales they have told thee of me; My heart beats as tru - ly, as fond - ly, as free; And, though ma - lice as - sail, with her false - hoods, my name, Through life thou wilt find me in spi - rit the same. Ah! be - lieve that in me, day and dark - ness will find One proud in his spi - rit as con - stant in mind.

Let those who delight to inflict the sad pain
 On a heart that in faith ne'er can wander again,
 Know that whispering Hope, still unwilling to stray,
 Has driven Despair from this bosom away, [kind,
 And that she, in her fondness, smil'd sweetly and
 On the proudest in spirit, most constant in mind

O! mem'ry! may never thy blossoms decay, [way;
 Though tempests should scatter life's treasures a -
 The past days of pleasure reflected by thee,
 Are now the sole solace the world hath left me:
 Ah! yet still one fond bosom is faithful and kind
 To one proud in his spirit as constant in mind

As sung by Henry Russell.

'What handsome wings you've got,' said the spider to the fly;—

'If I had such a pair, I in the air would fly!—

'Tis useless all my wishing, and only idle talk; You can fly up in the air, while I'm obliged to walk. Will you, will you? &c.

NOT MARRIED YET.

Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

I'm sin - gle yet! I'm sin - gle yet! And years have flown since I came out! In vain I sigh - In vain I fret! Ye gods! ye gods! what, what, what are the men a - bout? I vow I'm twen-ty! O! ye pow'r's! A spin-ster's lot is hard to bear! On earth a - lone to pass her hours, And af - ter - wards lead apes down there!

No offer yet! no offer yet!

I'm sure I cannot make it out—

For ev'ry beau my cap I set:

What, what, what are the men about?

They don't propose! they won't propose!

For fear, perhaps, I'd not say, 'Yes!'—

'wish they'd try—for, Heav'n knows,

I'm tir'd of single blessedness!

Not married yet! not married yet!

Heigho! alas! and well-a day!

A hand of snow, an eye of jet,

Are all I have to give away.

They say, 'She's pretty, but, alas!'

With hand extended, thus they float:

'She has no cash!' and by they pass;—

Ye gods! what are the men about?

TUBAL CAIN.

Poetry by Charles Mackay; Music by Henry Russell.—Published by Jefferys.

Allegro Moderato.

Old Tu-bal Cain was a mea c' night, In the days when Earth was young; By the fierce red light of his fur - nace bright, The strokes of his ham - mer rung; And he lift - ed high his brow - ny hand On the i - ron glow - ing clear, Till the sparks rush'd out in scar - let rout, As he fashion'd the sword and spear; - - And he sang, 'Hur - ra for my han - di - work! Hur - ra for the spear and sword! Hur - ra for the hand that shall wield them well, For he shall be king and lord!'

To Tubal Cain came many a one,
As he wrought by his roaring fire,
And each one pray'd for a strong steel blade,
As the crowa of his own desire;

And he made them weapons sharp and strong,
Till they shouted loud for glee,
And gave him gifts of pearls and gold,
And spoils of the forest free;

And they sang, 'Hurra for Tubal Cain,
 Who hath giv'n us strength anew—
 Hurra for the smith! hurra for the fire!
 And hurra for the metal true!
 But a sudden change came o'er his head
 Ere the setting of the sun;
 And Tubal Cain was fill'd with pain
 For the evil he had done:
 He saw that men with rage and hate
 Made war upon their kind,
 And the land was red with the blood they shed
 In their lust for carnage blind;
 And he said, 'Alas! that ever I made,
 Or that skill of mine should plan,
 The spear and the sword for men whose joy
 Is to slay their fellow man!'
 And for many a day old Tubal Cain
 Sat brooding o'er his woe;
 And his hand forbore to smite the ore,
 And his furnace smoulder'd low:

But he rose at last with a cheerful face,
 And a bright courageous eye,
 And bar'd his strong right arm for work.
 While the quick flames mounted high:
 And he sang, 'Hurra for my handiwork!'
 And the red sparks lit the air,—
 'Not alone for the blade was the bright steel made,'
 And he fashion'd the first ploughshare.
 And men, taught wisdom from the past,
 In friendship join'd their hands,— [wall,
 Hung the sword in the hall, and the spear on the
 And plough'd the willing lands;
 And sang, 'Hurra for Tubal Cain,
 Our staunch good friend is he;
 And for the ploughshare and the plough,
 To him our praise shall be.
 But while oppression lifts its head,
 Or a tyrant would be lord,
 Though we may thank him for the plough,
 We'll not forget the sword.'

THE OLD FARM-GATE.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Andante.

Where, where is the gate that once serv'd to di - vide The elm - shad-ed lane from the dus - ty road-side? I like not this bar - ri - er gay - ly bedight, With its glit - ter - ing latch and its trel - lis of white: It is seem - ly, I own, yet, O! dear - er by far Was the red - rust - ed hinge and the wea - ther - warp'd bar. Here are fa - shion and form of a mo - dern - ized gate, But I'd ra - ther have look'd on the Old Farm - Gate.

'Twas here that the urchins would gather to play
 In the shadows of twilight or sunny mid-day;
 For the stream running nigh, and the hillocks or sand, [stand;—
 Were temptations no dirt-loving rogue could with-
 But to swing on the gate-rails, to clamber and ride,
 Was the utmost of pleasure, of glory, and pride;
 And the car of the victor, or carriage of state,
 Never carried such hearts as the Old Farm-Gate.

'Twas over that gate I taught Pincher to bound With the strength of a steed and the grace of a hound:
 The beagle might hunt, and the spaniel might swim,
 But none could leap over the postern like him.
 When Dobbin was saddled for mirth-making trip,
 And the quickly pull'd willow-branch serv'd for a whip, [freight,
 Spite of lugging and tugging, he'd stand for his While I climb'd on his back from the Old Farm-Gate.

'Twas here where the miller's son paced to and fro,
 When the moo was above and the glow-worms
 below;

Now pensively leaning, now twirling his stick,
 While the moments grew long and his heart-throbs grew quick.

Why, why did he hunger so restlessly there, [hair?
 With church-going vestment and sprucely comb'd
 He lov'd, O! he lov'd, and had promis'd to wait
 For the one he ador'd, at the Old Farm-Gate.

O! fair is the barrier taking its place,
 But it darkens a picture my soul lov'd to trace;—
 I sigh to behold the rough staple and hasp,
 And the rails, that my growing hand scarcely could clasp.

O! how strangely the warm spirit grudges to part
 With the commonest relic once link'd to the heart!
 And the brightest of fortune, the kindest fate,
 Would not banish my love for the Old Farm-Gate!

A LIFE IN THE WEST.

The Poetry by G. P. Morris; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions

Allergo con Spirito.

O! bro - thers, come hi-ther, and list to my sto - ry,— Mer - ry and brief will the nar - ra-tive be,— Here, like a mon-arch, I reign in my glo - ry— Mas-ter am I, boys, of all that I see:— Where once frown'd a fo - rest a gar - den is smil - ing, The meadows and moor-lands are marsh-es no more; And there curls the smoke of my cot-tage, be-guil - ing The chil-dren who clus - ter like grapes at the doo. Then en-ter, boys—cheer-ly, boys, en - ter and rest; The land of the heart is the land of the west! O-ho! boys! O-ho! boys! O - ho! boys! O - ho!

Talk not of the town, boys—give me the broad prairie,
Where man, like the wind, rolls impulsive and free;
Behold how its beautiful colours all vary,
Like those of the clouds, or the deep-rolling sea.
A life in the woods, boys, is even as changing;
With proud independence we season our cheer,
And those who the world are for happiness ranging,
Won't find it at all, if they don't find it here!
Then enter, boys, cheerly, &c.

Here, brothers, secure from all turmoil and danger,
We reap what we sow, for the soil is our own;—
We spread hospitality's board for the stranger,
And care not a fig for the king on his throne.
We never know want, for we live by our labour,
And in it contentment and happiness find;
We do what we can for a friend or a neighbour,
And die, boys, in peace and goodwill to mankind!
Then enter, boys, cheerly, &c.

THE RISING SUN.

The Poetry by H. J. Sharpe; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato.

On a rock-y cliff I stood, And the o - cean wash'd its base; A pros-pect broad and good The grate-ful eye could trace; Not a cloud ob-seur'd the sky, The dawn was bright and fair; Nature, slum-b'ring, seem'd to lie Un-ruf-fled by the air.

In the east the rising sun
 Display'd his golden crest;
 His daily race he had begun
 T'ward the glowing west.
 O'er the waters of the deep
 His glitt'ring rays he shed,
 While the sparkling billows leap
 From out their liquid bed.
 See where bright Aurora twines
 Her tresses round her brow,
 As the rugged lofty pines
 With admiration bow:

Dewy mists, in sportive play,
 Their glitt'ring veils unfold;
 Like happy spirits, flee away
 In tints of molten gold.

Gentle zephyrs float around,
 And murr'ring surges meet,
 Blending their notes of sound
 In music wild and sweet.
 How the grateful bosom burns
 With wonder and with love,
 As the soul in rapture turns
 To brighter scenes above.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

The Poetry by Charles Dickens, Esq., printed by permission; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's cheap and uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Grazioso con Anima.

I care not for Spring! On his fic - kle wing Let the blos - soms and buds be borne: He woos them a - main with his treach - er - ous rain. And he scat - ters them ere the morn. An in - con - stant elf, he knows not him - self or his own chang - ing mind an hour, - He'll smile in your face, and with wry gri - mace He'll wi - ther your young - est flow'r. Let the Sum - mer sun to his bright home run. He shall ne - ver be sought by me: When he's dimm'd by a cloud I can laugh a - loud, And I care not how sul - ky he be.

A mild harvest night, by the tranquil light
 Of the modest and gentle moon,
 Has a far sweeter sheen for me, I ween,
 Than the broad and unblushing noon.
 But every leaf awakens my grief,
 As it lieth beneath the tree:
 So let autumn air be never so fair,
 It by no means agrees with me.

Let the summer sun, &c.

But my song I troll out, for Christmas stout,
 The hearty, the true, and the bold:
 A bumper I drain, and with might and main
 Give three cheers for this Christmas o.d.

We'll usher him in with a merry din,
 That shall gladden his joyous heart,
 And we'll keep him up, while there's bit or sup,
 And in fellowship good we'll part.
 Let the summer sun, &c.

In his fine honest pride, he scorns to hide
 One jot of his hard-weather scars:
 They're no disgrace, for there's much the same tract
 On the checks of our bravest tars.
 Then again I sing, till the roof doth ring.
 And it echoes from wall to wall—
 To the stout old wight, fair welcome to-night,
 As the king of the seasons all!
 Let the summer sun, &c.

THE EXILE.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay.—Music by Henry Russell.

Andante con Espressione.

O sad-ly, ye dark roll-ing waves of the o - cean, O sad - ly ye beat on this de - so - late shore, And wake, with the voice of your rest - less com - mo - tion, Sad thoughts of the home I must vis - it no more, Sad thoughts of the home I must vis - it no more. Fine.
From the far - dis - tant land which has spurn'd me for ev - er, The land for whose glo - ry I've strug - gled in vain, Ye come, O ye winds! but, like me, ye can nev - er, O nev - er re - turn to be - hold it a - gain! O, nev - er re - turn to be - hold it a - gain! O!

Thou bird that dost wing thy fair course o'er the billow,

How happy, like thee, all unfetter'd to roam!
Each wave-circl'd rock can afford thee a pillow;
Each isle of the ocean provide thee a home!

But I must still wander in sorrow and sadness,
And stifle the thoughts which for ever awake;
Must brood o'er my woes till they drive me to madness,
And teach my proud spirit to bend or to break.

MY MOTHER'S BIBLE.

The Poetry by G. P. Morris; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Con Espresione.

This book is all that's left me now! Tears will un-bid-den start; With falt'-ring lip and throbbing brow, I press it to my heart. For ma-ny gen-e - ra - tions past Here is our fam'-ly tree: My mother's hands this Bi - ble clasp'd; She, dy-ing, gave it me.

Ah! well do I remember those,
Whose names those records bear!
Who round the hearth-stone us'd to close,
After the evening pray'r,
And speak of what this volume said,
In tones my heart would thrill;—
Though they are with the silent dead,
Here are they living still!

My father read this holy book,
To brothers, sisters, dear;—
How calm was my poor mother's look,
Who lean'd God's word to hear!—

Her angel face!—I see it yet!
What thronging mem'ries come!—
Again that little group is met
Within the halls of home!
Thou truest friend man ever knew
Thy constancy I've tried;
When all were false I found thee true,
My counsellor and guide:
The mines of earth no treasures give
From me this book could buy;
For, teaching me the way to live,
It teaches how to die!

THE STRUGGLE FOR FAME.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, Esq.; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Con espresione e Anima.

If thou wouldst win a last-ing fame, And make the fu-ture bless thy name,—Be-gin thy pe-ril-ous ca - reer, And walk thy way with-out a fear: And if thou hast a voice within That e - ver whis-pers work and win;— If thou canst plan a no-ble deed, - - And ne - ver flag till it suc-ceed; If thou canst struggle day and night, And keep thy cy-no-sure in sight;—If thou canst dine up-on a crust, Nor pine that fortune is un-just;—

If thou canst see, with tranquil breast,
The knave or fool in purple dress'd;—
If thou canst toil, the long-live day,
At thankless work, for scanty pay;—
If, in thy progress to renown,
Thou canst endure the scoff and frown,
And bear the treacherous embrace
Of those who run the selfsame race;—
If thou in darkest days canst find
An inner brightness in thy mind,
Whatever obstacles control,
Go on, true heart, thou'lt reach the goal.

But, if so bent on worldly fame
That thou must gild thy living name,
And hast not strength to watch and pray
To seize thy time and force thy way;—
If failure might thy soul oppress,
And make thee like thy soul the less;—
Should rivalry thy fame forestal,
And thou let tears or curses fall;—
Pause ere thou tempt the hard career—
Thy heart will break, thy brain will wear:—
Content thee with a meaner lot,
Nor sigh that thou must be forgot.

THE POOR MAN'S FRIEND.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato con espress.

No sa-ble pall, no wa-ving plume, No thou-sand torch-lights to il-lume; No part-ing glance, no strug-gling tear, Is seen to fall up-on the bier. There is not one of kin-dred clay To watch the cof-fin on its way; No mor-tal form, no hu-man breast, Cares where the poor man's bones may rest!

But one deep mourner follows there,
Whose grief outlives the fun'ral prayer;
He does not sigh, he does not weep,
But will not leave the sadless heap.
No! he who was the poor man's mate,
And made him more content with fate,
The old gray dog, that shared his crust,
Is all that stands beside his dust.

He bends his list'ning head, as though
He thought to hear a voice below;
He pines to miss that voice so kind,
And wonders why he's left behind.

The sun goes down, the night is come—
He needs no food, he seeks no home—
But, stretch'd upon the dreamless bed,
With doleful howl calls back the dead.

The passing gaze may coldly dwell
On all that polish'd marbles tell;
For temples built on churchyard earth
Are claim'd by riches more than worth.
But who would mark with undimm'd eyes
The mourning dog that starves and dies?
Who would not ask, who would not crave,
Such love and faith to guard his grave?

WOODMAN, SPARE THAT TREE.

The Poetry by G. P. Morris; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published by Davidson.

Ardante.

Wood-man, spare that tree,— Touch not a sin-gle bough;— In youth it shel-ter'd me, And I'll pro-tect it now. 'Twas my fore-fa-ther's hand That plac'd it near his cot;— There, woodman, let it stand,—Thy axe shall harm it not.

That old familiar tree,
Whose glory and renown
Are spread o'er land and sea,—
Ah! wouldst thou hack it down?
Woodman, forbear thy stroke—
Cut not its earth-bound ties;
O! spare that aged oak,
Now tow'ring to the skies!

When but an idle boy,
I sought its grateful shade,
In all their gushing joy;
Here, too, my sister play'd—

My mother kiss'd me here—
My father press'd my hand;—
Forgive this foolish tear,
But let that old oak stand.

My heart-strings round thee cling,
Close as thy bark, old friend!
Here shall the wild bird sing,
And still thy branches bend.
Old tree! the storm still brave!
And, woodman, leave the spot;
While I've a hand to save,
Thy axe shall harm it not!

THE IVY GREEN.

The Poetry by Charles Dickens, Esq. printed by permission; the Music by Henry Russell.
Published by Davidson.

Moderato.

O! a dain-ty plant is the I - vy green, That creepeth o'er ru - ins old! Of right choice food are his meals, I ween, In his cell so lone and cold: The walls must be crumbled, the stones de-cay'd, To pleasure his dain - ty whim; And the mould'ring dust that years have made is a mer-ry meal for him. Creep-ing where no life is seen, A rare old plant is the I - vy green. ad lib. O! creep-ing where no life is seen, A rare old plant is the I - vy green. Creep-ing, ad lib. creep-ing, ad lib. creep-ing where no life is seen, Creep-ing, ad lib. creep-ing, A rare old plant is the I - vy green.

Fast he stealeth on, though he wears no wings,
And a staunch old heart has he!
How closely he twineth, how tightly he clings,
To his mate, the huge oak-tree!
And slyly he traileth along the ground,
And his leaves he gently waves,
As he joyously hugs and creeps around
The rich mould of dead men's graves.
Creeping where, &c.

Whole ages have fled, and their works decay'd,
And nations have scatter'd been:
But the stout old Ivy shall never fade,
From its hale and hearty green.
The brave old plant, in its lonely days,
Shall fatten upon the past:
For the stateliest building man can raise
Is the Ivy's food at last.
Creeping where, &c.

WE WERE BOYS TOGETHER.

The Poetry by G. P. Morris; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Edition of his Songs.

Con Anima.

We were boys to - ge - ther, And never can for - get The school-house near the hea-ther, In child-hood where we met; Nor the green home, to mem - 'ry dear, Its sorrows and its joys, Which call'd the transient smile or tear, When you and I were boys.

We were youths together,
And castles built in air!
Your heart was like a feather,
While mine was dash'd with care!
To you came wealth with manhood's prime,
To me it brought alloys,
Ne'er imag'd in the primrose time
When you and I were boys.

We're old men together!
The friends we lov'd of yore,
With leaves of Autumn weather,
Are gone for ever more!
How bless'd to age the impulse giv'n.
The hope time ne'er destroys,
Which led our thoughts from earth to heav'n,
When you and I were boys.

COME, BROTHERS, AROUSE.

Composed by Henry Russell.—Published by Davidson.

Vivace.

The musical score is written in a single system with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The time signature is 3/8. The melody is lively and rhythmic, with many eighth and sixteenth notes. The lyrics are printed below the notes, with some words in italics. The score ends with a double bar line.

sum - mer sun's in the sky; The bee's on its wing, and the hawk's in his nest, and the ri - ver runs mer-ri - ly by— and the ri - ver runs mer - ri - ly
by. Come, dance, lads— come, dance, lads,— oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh! Come, dance, lads— Come, dance, lads— come, dance, come, dance a - way, a - way, a - way, a - way a - way, a - way, oh! oh! - - -

And this is the life for a man, a man,
And this is the life for me:

The prince may boast if he can, he can,
But he never was half so free.

THE OLD CHURCH BELL

Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.
Andante Moderato.

O! a mourn-ful sound has the Old Church bell, That swings in the bel-fry old;—How ma - ny a sad and mer - ry knell Has he rung from his tur - ret bold! The old gray-beard and the pea-sant boy Havelis-ten'd to his chime, As he chang'd his note from death to joy, With the chang-ing hours of Time. Toll - ing on, with mournful knell, A warn-ing voice has the Old Church Bell,—Toll - ing on, with mournful knell, A warn-ing voice has the Old Church Bell,—Toll - ing on, with mournful knell, A warn-ing voice has the Old Church Bell. Ding dong, ding dong, bell; ding dong, bell; ding dong, bell; ding dong, bell.

O! his voice is clear as it gayly peals
On a happy bridal morn,
But it mournfully to the fun'ral steals,
Ere the fading day be gone:
Impartial he maketh his summons ring,
Unlike the courtier's plan,
For he'll wail no louder the death of a king
Than he would of a poor old man.
Tolling on, with solemn knell,
A solemn sound has the Old Church Bell.

He has seen the sire and seen the son
To the village churchyard bend;
And the deep-ton'd welcome shall still ring on,
Till Time itself shall end;
And his loud old tongue, like a lonely bird,
Chimes with a sacred spell;—
For the sweetest music earth e'er heard
Must yield to the Old Church Bell.
Tolling on, with solemn knell,
A mournful sound has the Old Church Bell.
Ding, dong, &c.

LAND, HO!

Composed by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.
Moderato con Spirito.

Up, up with the sig - nal! the land is in sight! We'll be hap - py, if ne - ver a - gain, boys, to - night! The cold cheer - less o - cean in safe - ty we've pass'd, And the warm ge - nial earth glads our vi - sion at last, And the warm ge - nial earth glads our vi - sion at last. In the land of the stran - ger true hearts we chal find, To soothe us in ab-sence of those left be-hind; Ho! - - Land, land, ho! all hearts glow with joy at the sight! We'll be hap-py, if ne-ver a-gain, boys, tonight: We'll be hap-py, if ne-ver a-gain, boys, to-night! We'll be hap-py, if ne-ver a-gain, boys, to-night! We'll be hap-py for once, boys, to-night!

The signal is waving!—Till morn we remain,
 Then part in the hope to meet one day again,
 Round the hearth-stone of home, in the land of our birth,
 The holiest spot on the face of the earth!
 Dear country, our thoughts are as constant to thee
 As the steel to the star, or the stream to the sea;
 Ho! lana, and, ho! we near it, we bound at the sight!
 We'll be happy, if never again, boys, to-night!

The signal is answer'd!—The foam-sparkles rise.
 Like tears from the fountain of joy to the eyes;—
 May rain-drops that fall from the storm-clouds of care
 Melt away in the sun-beaming smiles of the fair!
 One health, as chime gayly the nautical oells,—
 'To woman—God bless her! wherever she dwells!
 Ho! the pilot's on board, and, thank Heaven, all's right!
 We'll be happy, if never again, boys, to-night!

THE DYING LEGACY.

A Ballad.—The Poetry by J. M. Church, Esq.; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's
 Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderate con Anima Espressivo.

Saw ye the sha-dow o'er his brow, The pal-lor on his cheek? Saw ye the sad-ness in his eve, And did ye hear him speak? Ah! 'twas an im-pulse hor-ri-ble In -
 - flam'd his a-ged breast, The blast-ing of his dy-ing hopes, - - His poor wife's sole be-quest. Saw ye the sha-dow o'er his brow, The pal-lor on his check? Saw ye the sad-ness in his eye, And did ye hear him speak?

But late a daughter, simple child,
 Sat prattling on his knee;
 The solace of his tott'ring days,
 His poor wife's legacy!
 And, as he look'd into her eyes,
 And watch'd her childish glee,
 He murmur'd, 'Dear, oh! dear thou art,
 My poor wife's legacy!
 Saw ye the shadow o'er his brow &c.

'Tis now that old man, weak and wan,
 Sits comfortless and lone:
 His child, alas! poor fallen thing,
 Sick'ning to think upon;—
 And, as her image meets his thoughts,
 They strive, they strive to flee:—
 In vain: 'Poor fall'n Emm!' he sobs,
 'My poor wife's legacy!
 Saw ye the shadow o'er his brow, &c.

A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

Composed by Henry Russell; and published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Viva

A life on the o - cean wave! A home on the roll - ing deep! Where the scat - ter'd wa - ters rave, And the winds their re - vels keep! A home on the roll - ing deep! Where the scat - ter'd wa - ters rave, And the winds their re - vels keep! Like an ca - gle cag'd pine, On this dull un - chang - ing shore—O!
 give me the flash - ing brine, The spray and the tem - pest's roar. - - - A life on the o - cean wave! A home on the roll - ing deep! Where the scat - ter'd wa - ters rave, And the winds their re - vels keep!—the winds, the winds, the winds their re - vels keep; the winds, the winds, the winds their re - vels keep - - -

Once more on the deck I stand
 Of my own swift-gliding craft;
 Set sail! farewell to the land!
 The gale follows fair abaft!
 We shoot through the sparkling foam,
 Like an ocean-oid set free;
 Like the ocean-bird, our home
 We'll find far out on the sea.
 A life on the ocean wave, &c.

The land is no longer in view;
 The clouds have begun to frown;
 But, with a stout vessel and crew,
 We'll say, let the storm come down!
 And the song of our hearts shall be,
 While the winds and the waters rave,
 A life on the heaving sea!
 A home on the bounding wave!

SOME LOVE TO ROAM.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published by Davidson.

All-gro.

Some love to roam o'er the dark sea's foam, Where the shrill winds whis - tle free, But a cho - sen band, in a moun - tain land, And a life in the woods, for me; But a cho - sen band, in a moun - tain land, And a life in the woods, for me! When morn - ing beams o'er the moun - tain streams, O!

mer - ri - ly forth we go, To fol - low the stag to his slip - p'ry crag, And to chase the bound - ing roe. Ho, ho, ho, ho! Ho, ho, ho, ho! Ho, ho, ho, ho! - - -

Some love to roam o'er the dark sea's foam, When the shrill winds whis - tle

free; But a cho - sen band, in a moun - tain land, And a life in the woods, for me, And a life in the woods for me, And a life in the woods for me!

The deer we mark, in the forest dark,
And the prowling wolf we track;
And for right good cheer, in the forest here,
O! why should a hunter lack?

For with steady aim at the bounding game,
And hearts that fear no foe,
To the darksome glade, in the forest shade,
O! merrily forth we go.
Ho, ho, ho! Some love to roam, &c.

DEAR JANET.

The Poetry by Frederick West; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Con espresstone.

I dream'd, dear Ja-net, that all the earth Bow'd down to thy beau - ty's might;— The flash - ing me - teor in Hea - ven had birth, Yet en - vy'd thine eyes' sweet light; The ro - sy dawn, and the blushing eve, To thee did their light con - sign; - - - The nightingale left his rose, to sing To thy cheek its song di - vine, Dear Ja-net, Dear Ja - net.

And then the zephyr its spirit dress'd
In the perfume of sweet flow'rs,
And joyously to thy cheek it press'd,
And thy tresses made its bow'r's;
It fann'd thy face, and in dream-like bliss
It pour'd forth its gentle lay,—
As it stole from thy roseate lips a kiss,
Softly sighing, seem'd to say, ' Dear Janet.'

When the frost wither'd, I steep'd my wings
In the balm of the southern skies:
And to cool thy brow in summer's heat,
In realms where the cold snow lies;
And then I chang'd to the zephyr, dear,—
I knelt at thy beauty's shrine,
And, in transport and passion, breath'd the love
Of a heart that is wholly thine, dear Janet.

LITTLE FOOLS AND GREAT ONES.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Allegro Moderato.

When at the so - cial board you sit, And pass a - round the wine, Remem - ber, though a - buse is vile, That use may be di - vine; That Heav'n in kind - ness gave the grape, To cheer both great and small— cres.
That lit - tle fools will drink too much, But great ones not at all.
And when, in youth's too fleeting hours, But, in your daily intercourse,
You roam the earth alone, Remember, lest you fall,
And have not sought some loving heart, That little fools confide too much,
That you may make your own, — And great ones not at all.
Remember woman's priceless worth, In work or pleasure, love or drink,
And think, when pleasures pall, Your rule be still the same;—
That little fools will love too much, Your work not toil, your pleasures pure,
And great ones not at all. Your love a steady flame;
And if a friend deceiv'd you once, Your drink not madd'ning, but to cheer—
Absolve poor human kind, — So shall your bliss not pall:
Nor rail against your fellow man, For little fools enjoy too much,
With malice in your mind; But great ones not at all.

COME, FILL THE CUP.

Poetry by Henry John Sharpe; Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato Vivace.

Come, fill the cup, nor fear to sip The gen'rous, gen'rous ru - by wine; Let love - ly wo - man's ro - sy lip Pro - tect, pro - tect the sa - cred vine! The cheer - ful cup in - spires the heart with friend - ship's sun - ny, sun - ny glow; In mod'rate draught, it doth in - part To wit a spark - ling, spark - ling flow. Come, fill the cup, nor fear to sip the gen' - rous, gen' - rous ru - by wine; Let love - ly wo - man's ro - sy lip Pro - tect, pro - tect the sa - cred vine.

Come, fill the cup! the regal draught
 For ill was ne'er design'd;
 The temp'rate will avoid the shaft
 Excess may leave behind.
 With grateful care the rare old vine
 Was rear'd by Nature's hand;
 Let not in vain its tendrils twine,
 Its juicy buds expand.

Come, fill the cup! &c.

Come, fill the cup! nor dream that harm
 Incipient lurks within:
 We pledge alone the social charm,
 But guard against the sin.
 Come, drain the cup! and leave awhile
 Dull care to take its flight;
 While lovely woman's gentle smile
 Illumes the shades of night.

Come, drain the cup! &c.

VERY PEKOOLiar, OR THE LISPING LOVER.

As sung by Henry Russell.

Moderato.

Have you e'er been in love? if you hav'nt I have—To the lit-tle god, Koo-pid, I've been a great thlave; He thot at my buth-om a quiv-er of harrows, Like naugh-ty boys thoot at cock-ro-bins and thpar-rows. My heart was as pure as the white al-aba-ther, Till Koo-pid my buth-om weak did o-ver-mather; Ye gods on-ly know how I lov'd one Mith Julia, There was something a-bout her so we-ry pe-koo-liar.

We met first at a ball, where our hands did entwine,
 And I did squeegee her finger and she did squeegee mine;
 To be my next partner I ventur'd to preth her,
 And I found that she lithp'd when she answer'd me, 'Yeth, thir.'
 Now, in lithping, I think, there is something uncommon—

I love, in pertikler, a lithp in a ooman:
 I'm sure you'd have liked the lithp of Mith Julia,
 There was something about it so very pekooliar.

Like a beautiful peach was the cheek of my Julia,
 And then in her eye there was something pekooliar;
 Speaking volumnes, it darted each glance to one's marrow,

As thwift and as keen as the wicked boy's harrow.
 A thlight cath in her eye to her looks added vigor;—

A cath in the eye often tends to disfigure,
 But not so the cath in the eye of Mith Julia,—
 There was something about it so very pekooliar.

Good friends were we thoon, and midst thmiles and midst tears,

I courted ner nearly for three or four years;
 I took her to plays and to balls—oh, ye powers!
 How thweetly and thwiftly did then path away
 the hours!

But once—oh, e'en now, I my feelings can't thmo-ther—

She danc'd all the evening along with another;—
 I didn't thay nothing that night to Mith Julia,
 But I couldn't help thinking 'twas very pekooliar.

I went next day to theold; when she, to my heart's core,

Cut me up by requething I'd come there no more;
 And I should be affronted if longer I tarried,
 For next week to another she was to be married.
 'Gods! Julia,' said I, 'why! you do not thay tho?'

'Yeth, but I do, thir, and you'd better go.'
 'Well, I thall go; but, thurely you'll own it, Mith
 Julia,

Your behaviour to me hath been very pekooliar.'

Spoken.] Very pekooliar, very pekooliar, indeed, Mith.

Ah! from that day to this, I have never thcen
 Julia;

Her behaviour to me, though, was very pekooliar.

THE SPIRIT AND THE STREAM.

Poetry by Eliza Cook, to the Music of 'The Old Arm Chair,' composed by Henry Russell.

Andante con Espressione.

The banks of the ri - ver were love - ly and bright, As the blos - soms and boughs met the sum - mer noon - light; The moss hid the flow - er, the tree screen'd the moss, And the wil - low's thick tres - ses fell sweep - ing a - cross: But Time took his way on those green banks at last, And pull'd up the flow'rs and trees as he pass'd;— He stretch'd his cold hand— the white cot - tage was down, And the spring - y moss wi - ther'd be - neath his stern frown.

He tramped the woodbine, and blotted all trace
Of the willow so lov'd for its wave-kissing grace;
But he touch'd not the river—that still might be found

Just the same as when beautiful green banks were
The heart, like that water, may quicken and glow,
While rare beauty is seen on the furrowless brow;
It may gayly expand where Love twineth a bow'r,
And faithfully picture the branch and the flow'r.

But Time will soon plough up the forehead so sleek.
He will whiten the dark hair, and shadow the cheek;
The charms that once dazzled will dazzle no more,
But the heart, like the water, shines on as before.
The tide gushes fast, all as fresh and as fair

As it did when the alder and lily were there;
The change that has come o'er the place of its course
Has not lessen'd its riple, or alter'd its source.

And the heart that is beating with Nature and Truth
May outlive some dear images mirror'd in youth:
Some wrecks may be round it, but none e'er shall find

Its deep feelings less quick, or its yearnings less O! the green banks may fade, and the brown locks turn gray,
But the stream and the spirit shall gleam on their
For the heart that is warm, and the tide that is free,

Glide onward unchang'd to Eternity's sea.

THE MAIN.

The Poetry by Henry John Sharpe.—The Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

The main, the main, the flow - ing main! Where proud - ly rides Vic - to - ria's fleet— The main, the main is Free - dom's strain; Let ev - - 'ry voice the Fine.
lay - re - peat! Where proud - ly rides Vic - to - ria's fleet— The main, the main, is Free - dom's strain; Let ev - - 'ry voice the lay - - re.

From depths profound the waves resound,
And morn'ring music fills the air;
With what delight the prospect bright
Invites the mariner to share!
The feather'd oar puts out from shore,
And swiftly o'er the waters glides;
The swelling sail heeds not the gale,
But safely through the tempest rides!
The main, &c.

That noble bark with wonder mark,
Emerging from a wat'ry cave:
Now toss'd on high, it braves the sky,
A feather on the mighty wave.
The tempests cease, and, hush'd in peace,
The baffling surges soon are spread;
As Nature sleeps, old Neptune leaps
Triumphant from his liquid bed!
The rain, &c.

THE SEA-KING'S BURIAL.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Allegro con Anima.

'My strength is fail-ing fast,' Said the Sea-king to his men,— 'I shall ne-ver sail the seas Like a con-quer-or a-gain; But, while yet a drop re-mains Of the life-blood in my veins, Raise, O! raise me from my bed, Put my crown up-on my head, Put my good sword in my hand,— And so lead me to the strand, Where my ship at an-chor
ad lib.
rides,— Stea-di-ly, stea-di-ly;—If I can-not end my life In the glo-rious bat-tle strife, Let me die as I have liv'd,—let me die, let me die on the sea.'

They have borne him to the ship,
With a slow and solemn tread;
They have plac'd him on the deck,
With his crown upon his head;
And in the hold beneath
Lit the slow sure fire of death.
There was music in her sails,
As they spread them to the gales,
And a dashing at her prow,
As she cleft the waves below;
And he rais'd his voice, exulting! gallantly!
'The life is in me yet,
And the courage to forget
All my pain, in my triumph on the sea.'

Once alone, a cry aros,
Half of anguish, half of pride,
As he sank upon the deck,
With the flames on ev'ry side;
'I am coming,' said the king,
'Where the sword and bucklers ring,'
And of Bolder, warrior born,
Naught remain'd, at break of morn,
Of the charr'd and blacken'd hull,
But some ashes and a skull;—
And still the vessel drifted heavily,
With a pale and hazy light,
Until far into the night,
When she founder'd in the silence of the sea.

THE FIRST DEAR THING THAT EVER I LOV'D.*

The Poetry by the Rev. A. C. Cox; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Con Espressione.

The first dear thing that ev-er I lov'd, Was a mo-ther's beam-ing eye, That smil'd as I woke on the dream-y couch, That cra-dled my in-fan-cy; I ne-ver for-get the joy-ous thrill That smile in my bo-som stirr'd; Nor how it could charm me a-gainst my will, Till I laugh'd like a joy-ous bird.

And the next fair thing that ever I loved
 Was a bunch of summer flow'rs,
 With odours, and hues, and loveliness,
 Fresh as Eden's bow'rs:—
 I never can find such hues again,
 Nor smell such sweet perfume;
 And if there be odours as sweet as them,
 'Tis I that have lost my bloom.

And the next dear thing that ever I loved
 Was a fawn-like little maid,
 Half awed, half pleased, by the frolic boy
 That tortured her doll, and played;
 I never can see the gossamer,
 Which rude rough zephyrs tease,
 But I think how I tossed her flossy locks,
 With my whirling bonnet's breeze.

And the next good thing that ever I loved
 Was a bow kite in the sky;
 And a little boat on the brooklet's surf,
 And a dog for my company;
 And a jingling hoop, with many a bound
 To my measured strike and true;
 And a rocket sent up to the firmament,
 When Even was out so blue.

And the next fair thing I was fond to love
 Was a field of wavy grain,
 Where the reapers mowed; or a ship in sail
 On the billowy, billowy main;
 And the next was a fiery, prancing horse,
 That I felt like a man to stride;
 And the next was a beautiful sailing-boat,
 With a helm it was hard to guide.

And the next dear thing I was fond to love
 Is tenderer far to tell:
 'Twas a voice, and a hand, and a gentle eye
 That dazzled me with its spell;
 And the loveliest things I had loved before
 Were only the landscape now,
 On the canvass bright where I pictured her,
 In the glow of my early vow.

And the next good thing I was fain to love
 Was to sit in my cell alone,
 Musing o'er these lovely things,
 For ever, for ever flow.

Then out I walked in the forest free,
 Where wanted the autumn wind,
 And the coloured boughs swung shiveringly,
 In harmony with my mind.

And a Spirit was on me that next I loved,
 That ruleth my spirit still,
 And maketh me murmur these sing-song words,
 Albeit against my will.
 And I walked the woods till the winter came,
 And then did I love the snow; [aisles,
 And I heard the gales through the wildwood
 Like the Lord's own organ blow.

And the bush I had loved in my greenwood walk
 I saw it far away,
 Surpliced with snows, like the bending priest
 That kneels in the church to pray:
 And I thought of the vaulted fane and high,
 Where I stood when a little child,
 Awed by the lauds sung thrillingly,
 And the anthems undefiled.

And again to the vaulted church I went,
 And I heard the same sweet prayers.
 And the same full organ-peals upsent,
 And the same soft, soothing airs;
 And I felt in my spirit so drear and strange,
 To think of the race I ran,
 That I loved the sole thing that knew no change
 In the soul of the boy and man.

And the tears I wept in the wilderness,
 And that froze on my lids, did fall,
 And melted to pearls for my sinfulness,
 Like scales from the eyes of Paul:
 And the last dear thing I was fond to love
 Was that holy service high,
 That lifted my soul to joys above,
 And pleasures that do not die

And then, said I, one thing there is That I of the Lord desire.
 That ever, while I on earth shall live,
 I will of the Lord require:
 That I may dwell in his temple bless'd,
 As long as my life shall be,
 And the beauty fair of the Lord of Hosts
 In the home of his glory see.

* This elegant poem is printed entire, that the singer may select the verses most consonant to his taste or state of feeling. The First, Second, Fourth, and Sixth, with the first four lines of the Seventh, followed by the last four lines of the Eleventh for a conclusion, will be found a continuous and eloquent song, not too long to be generally acceptable

OUR WAY ACROSS THE MOUNTAINS.

The Poetry by George Soane, A.B.; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Con Anima.

Spring has vi'-lets blue, all be-sprent with dew, And the summer's song rings cheer-i-ly;—And win-ter is chill, yet I love him still, For he ne'er to me looks wea-ri-ly, As sing-ing we go, Our way a-cross the mountains, ho! ho! ho! Our way a-cross the moun-tains; ho! ho! ho! ho! ho! When winds are loud, and the gath'-ring cloud Pour-eth the show-er, drea-ri-ly, How it glad-dens the eye if the fire we spy, From the cot-tage bla-zing mer-ri ly, ad lib. O! When our way is past, and the fire at last Gives a wel-come home right glow-ing-ly, More plea-sant the shout of the storm with out, While the wine is streaming flow-ing-ly. Then sing-ing we go, Our way a-

Ah! it still is far, like some distant star,
 Yet it beameth out right pleasantly;
 Our bosoms they swell, and we hope full well
 That we shall be there presently.

The ground is white, and through the night
 Cometh the squall so gustily;
 The sleet drives thick, and the rain falls thick,
 But our hearts beat high and lustily.
 O! now our way is past, &c.

OLD KING TIME.

Quasi Allegro.

I wear not the pur - ple of earth-born kings, Nor the state - ly er - mine of lord - ly things; But monarch and courtier, tho' great they be, Must fall from their glo - ry and bend to me, But mon - arch and cour - tier, tho' great they be, Must fall from their glo - ry and bend to me. My scap - tre is gem - less; yet who can say, They will not come un - der its migh - ty sway? Ye may learn who I am—there's the pass - ing chime and the dial to he - rald me— Old King Time! Ha, ha! Old King Time! Ha, ha, ha! Ha, ha, ha, ha! Old King Time! Ha, ha, ha!

Softly I creep, like a thief in the night,
 After cheeks all blooming and eyes all light;
 My steps are seen on the patriarch's brow,
 On the deep-worn furrows and locks of snow.
 Who laughs at my power?—The young and the gay;
 But they dream not how closely I track their way.
 Wait till their first bright sands have run,
 And they will not smile at what Time hath done.
 Ha, ha! Old King Time!

I eat thro' treasures with moth and rust;
 I lay the gorgeous palace in dust;
 I make the shell-proof tower my own,
 And break the battlement, stone from stone.
 Work on at your cities and temples, proud man,—
 Build high as ye may, and strong as ye can;
 But the marble shall crumble, the pillars shall fall,
 And Time, Old Time, will be King after all.
 Ha, ha! Old King Time!

THE OLD SEXTON.

The Poetry by Park Benjamin; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Quasi Allegro.

Nigh to a grave that was new - ly made Lean'd a Sex - ton old, on his earth-worn spade; His work was done, and he paus'd to wait The fun' - ral train through the o - pen gate: A re - lic of by-gone days was he, And his locks were white as the foamy sea; And these words came from his lips so thin: 'I gather them in,— gather them in,— gather, gather, gather,— I ga-ther them in.'

'I gather them in! For man and boy,
Year after year of grief and joy,
I've builded the houses that lie around,
In every nook of the burial-ground:
Mother and daughter—father and son,
Come to my solitude one by one;
But come they strangers, or come they kin,
I gather them in—I gather them in.'
I gather them in, &c.

'Many are with me—but still I'm alone:
I'm king of the dead, and I make my throne
On a monument slab of marble cold,
And my sceptre of rule is the spade I hold.

Come they from cottage or come they from hall,
Mankind are my subjects, all, all, all;
Let them toil in pleasure or wilfully spin,
I gather them in, I gather them in.
I gather them in, &c.

'I gather them in, and their final rest
Is here, down here, in the earth's dark breast;
And the Sexton ceas'd, for the fun'ral train
Wound mutely o'er that solemn plain;
And I said to myself, when Time is old,
A mightier voice than this Sexton's old
Will sound o'er the last trump's dreadful din:
'I gather them in,—I gather them in.'
I gather them in, &c.

WILL NOBODY MARRY ME?

The Words by G. P. Morris; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Vivace.

Heigh-o! for a husband! Heigh-o! There's dan-ger in lon-ger de-lay! Shall I ne-ver a-gain have a beau? Will no-bo-dy mar-ry me, pray? I begin to feel strange, I de-clare— With beau-ty my pros-pects will fade; I'd give my-self up to de-spair, If I thought I should die an old maid! Heigho! for a hus-band, heigh-o! Will no-bo-dy mar-ry me, say? Will no-bo-dy, no-bo-dy? no! Will no-bo-dy, no-bo-dy? no!

These men are the plague of my life!
'Tis hard from so many to choose:
Should any one wish for a wife,
Could I have the heart to refuse?
I don't know, for none have propos'd;—
O! dear me! I'm frighten'd, I vow—
Good gracious! who ever suppos'd
That I should be single till now!

Heigho! &c.

I once cut the beans in a huff;
I thought it a sin and a shame,
That no one had spirit enough
To ask me to alter my name.
So I turn'd up my nose at the short,
And roll'd up my eyes at the tall;
But, then, I just did it in sport
And now I've no lover at all!

Heigho! &c.

THE OLD SCHOOL-HOUSE.

The Poetry by Park Benjamin ; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato:

On the vil-lage green it stood, And a tree was at the door, Whose sha-dow, broad and good, Reach'd far a-long the floor Of the schoolroom, when the sun Put on his crim-son vest, And his dai-ly la-bour done, Like a monarch sank to rest.

How the threshold wood was worn!
How the lintel-post decay'd!
By the tread at eve and morn
Of the feet that o'er it stray'd—
By the pressure of the crowd
Within the portal small—
By the ivy's emerald shroud,
That wrapp'd and darken'd all!

That school-house dim and old—
How many years have flown
Since in its little fold
My name was kindly known!
How different it seems
From what it used to be,
When, gay as morning dreams,
We play'd around the tree!

How we watch'd the lengthen'd ray
Through the dusty window-pane!
How we long'd to be away,
And at sport upon the plain!
To leave the weary books,
And the master's careful eye,
For the flowers and for brooks,
And the cool and open sky

Alas! where now are they—
My early comrades dear?
Departed far away,
And I alone am here!
Some are in distant climes,
And some in churchyard cold—
Yet it tells of happy times,
That school-house dim and old!

THE VILLAGE GREEN.

To the same Music.—Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

On that lowly village green
Where those happy school-boys play,
Oft sporting was I seen
In joyous childhood's day;
But that time seems now a dream,
A vision that has been,
Where are, then, my playmates fled,
That once sported on yon green?

Still the school-room gable bends
O'er that little quiet pool;
But I miss my youthful friends,
Friends at that village school!
Far in distant land some roam,
And some are on the sea;
Now I've sought my native home,
I find all are strange to me.

Oh! how little time has wreck'd
My home of life's young tide,
Tho' my spirit's flow is check'd,
And my heart has lost its pride!
Time has not been kind to me;
I feel what I have been,
Since I trod so gaily free,
A boy on that village green!

To rest in yon churchyard lone,
Is my first and fond wish now,
With no name to mark the stone
That covers my cold brow.
Oh! my life has been a dream,
A vision faintly seen;
Yet even now I happy seem
When on that dear village green!

HOPE'S SEPULCHRE.

The Poetry by Anne A. Fremont.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 23, Price 3d.

Andante con Espres.

Bright Hope is dead, Bright Hope is dead! The smile has left her lip, the light her eye, The chang-ing co-lour from her cheek has fled, And ev'-ry witch - ing grace has pass - ed by. Oh! sigh, Oh! sigh, And shed the tear a - bove her bier; Oh! sigh, Oh! sigh;—We can - not grieve too much that Hope should die!

Shall we make her grave, shall we make her grave,

In the rainbow, which so much resembles her?

In the sparkling foam of the sunny wave?

'Midst the glad flowers of the infant year?

Oh! where, 'mid all things sweet on earth that meet,

Oh! where shall we for bright hope find a sepulchre!

Far 'neath the sea, far 'neath the sea,

Her rest will be, e'en by its storms unbroken;

Ah no! 'mid none of these, but let it be

Where most in life her honey'd words were spoken.

Oh! sigh, and lay her low, 'mid sobs of woe,
Deep, within a heart which Love has broken!

THE SOLDIER AND HIS BRIDE.

Composed by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's cheap and uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Moderato.

She heard the fight was over, And won the wreath of fame, When ti-dings from her lo - ver With his good war steed came: To guard her safe - ly to his tent, The red-men of the woods were sent; They led her where sweet wa-ters gush,

Un-der the pine-tree bough! The to-ma-hawk is rais'd to crush—'Tis bu-ried in her brow— She sleeps, she sleeps, be - neath that pine-tree now!

Her broken-hearted lover

In hopeless conflict died;

The forest leaves now cover

That soldier and his bride.

The frown of the Great Spirit fell

Upon the Red Men, like a spell;

No more those waters slake their thirst,

Shadeless to them that tree,—

O'er land and lake they roam accurs'd,

And in the clouds they see

Thy spirit—thy spirit unaveng'd, M'Crca!

THE SOLDIER'S WIFE.

To the same Music.—No. 724 of Davidson's Musical Treasury, Price 3d.

THE battle strife was over,

And silence reign'd around,

Save when some martial rover

Patroll'd the corse-strewn ground.

Yet, wand'ring o'er that gory plain;

One sought her lord amidst the slain;

His duty call'd him to the fray,

Then peace and hope lost she,

And, 'midst the horrors of the day,

His spirit sought the free.

He slept! he slept, in quiet with the dead!

She found him calmly resting,

As in a happy dream;

She felt as she was breasting

The battle's fiercest stream:

Then wildly round his form she clung,

While winds a mournful requiem sang:

And mis'ry breath'd in ev'ry tone

That bade her spirit bow;

She felt that she was left alone,

To tread a desert now!

He slept, he slept, and she embrac'd the dead!

The morning saw her bending,

In fondness, though in pain;—

Her lease of life was ending,

Her heart's affections slain.

With one sad sigh her spirit fled;

The wife, the husband, both were dead!

A grassy mound upon that plain,

Beneath a pine-tree's bough,

Marks where war's victims met again,

And where they slumber now!

They rest, they rest, in peace amongst the dead!

A HAPPY HOME IS MINE.

The Poetry by Angus B. Reach, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Moderato.

Let them sing, who may, Of the banquet gay, When disturb'd is the calm of night, By the dance so free, and the re-vel-ry, In plea-sure's wild-est height; Let them blithesome flee o-ver land and sea, O'er mountain and fo-rest roam;—But most dear in my eyes, the pleasures I prize, Are the joys of a hap-py home. With the cheer-ing light of my fire-side bright, Oh, I hail its ge-nial shine; Which glows a-far, like a wel-coming star,—Oh, a hap-py home be mine!

There are some who long, 'mid a merry throng,

To wander far away,

From a rock-bound strand to a vine-clad land,

From sombre scenes to gay;

And some there be, on the murmuring sea,

Who love along to sweep,

With a swelling sail, and an eddy gale,

Away o'er the rolling deep.

But the cheering light, &amp;c.

So then let the world be idly whirl'd,

For its pleasures I little care,

When I have by my side my own lov'd bride,

My peace and my bliss to share.

Then to others I leave, what must ever deceive,

The world's proud pomp and show;

For domestic love is a gift from above,

To bless us here below.

Then a cheering light, &amp;c.

WE MET IN OTHER YEARS.

The Poetry by Ione.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 181, Price 3d.

Con molto Espressione.

We met in o-ther years, love, When beau-ty grac'd thy brow, Ere world-ly cares and fears, love, Had sad-den'd us as now—O! mem'-ry's pleasant pla-ces Seem fai-ry land to me, When thought their path re-tra-ces, Be-lov'd one, with thee— Oh! my be-lov'd one, my be-lov'd one, with thee, Oh! my be-lov'd one, be-lov'd one, with thee.

What, though thy cheek hath faded ;
Far dearer now thou art,
Than when, with blushes shaded,
Its brightness bless'd my heart.

Time, that with silver twines, love
Our locks once flowing free,
Doth but more closely bind, love,
This dotting heart to thee—

ROCKAWAY.

The Poetry by Henry John Sharpe; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Sempre Moderato.

On old Long Is-land's sea-girt shore, Ma-ny an hour I've whil'd a-way, In list'n-ing to the breakers' roar, That wash the beach at Rock-a-way; On old Long Island's sea-girt shore, Ma-ny an hour I've whil'd a-way, In list'n-ing to the break-ers' roar, That wash the beach at Rock-a-way. Fine. Trans-fix'd I've stood while na-ture's lyre In one har-mo-nious con-cert broke, And, catch-ing its Pro-me-thean fire, My in-most soul to rap-ture woke. O! - - on, &c.

O! how delightful 'tis to stroll
Where murmur'ring winds and waters meet.
Marking the billows as they roll
And break resistless at your feet!
To watch young Iris as she dips
Her mantle in the sparkling dew,
And, chas'd by Sol, away she trips
O'er the horizon's quiv'ring blue.
On old Long Island's, &c.

To hear the startling night-winds sigh.
As dreamy twilight lulls to sleep;
While the pale moon reflects from high
Her image in the mighty deep.
Majestic scene, where Nature dwells,
Profound in everlasting love,
While her unmeasur'd music swells
The vaulted firmament above.
On old Long Island's, &c.

OLD ENGLISH HOSPITALITY.

To the same Music.—Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Old English Hospitality!
There's something in that sound
Still dear to ev'ry native heart
Within Old England found!
Tho' pleasure wait at fortune's call,
The poor may claim their part;
For there's a wealth more dear than all,
The riches of the heart!
Oh! the honest welcome, frank and free,
Which marks the lib'ral hand!
The brave old Hospitality
That warms our native land!
Old English Hospitality!
On ev'ry shore is heard,
Far as our flag hath swept the sea,
Each long familiar word!
The chieftain in his mountain home,
The peer in halls of state:

Where'er the foot of man may roam,
Though but the Cotter's gate,
Still lives that charm they ne'er forget,
From age to age the same;
Old customs, that keep holy yet
The light of England's fame!
Let Florence vaunt each classic shrine,
Greece sing of glories fled,
Old England with a grace divine
Still lifts her stately head!
For she hath treasure yet untold,
A triumph ever near,
Whilst round her, in heroic mould,
Her generous sons appear!
Then fill the goblet high, ye free,
And cheer whilst round ye stand;
Here's English Hospitality!
God bless the lib'ral hand!

'TIS EVE ON 'THE OCEAN.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Allegro.

'Tis eve on the 'ocean, The breeze is in mo-tion, And brisk-ly our ves-sel bounds forth on its way;— The blue sky is o'er us; The world is be - fore us; Then, El-len, my sweet one, look up and be gay! Why sor-row thus blind-ly For those who unkind-ly Could launch, and then leave us, on life's trou-bled sea; Who so heart-less-ly scant-ed The lit-tle we want-ed, And de-nied us the all that we ask'd—to be
ad lib.
free. But we've 'scap'd from their trammels,—the word is a - way! Then, El-len, my sweet one, look up and be gay; Then, El-len, my sweet one, look up and be gay, look up, look up and be gay, look up, look up and be gay.

On—on we are speeding, whilst, swiftly receding,
The white cliffs of Albion in distance grow blue :
Now that gem of earth's treasures, that scene of past pleasures,
The home of our childhood, fades fast from our view.
Yet still thy heart's swelling, my dearly-lov'd Ellen!
What reck's it to us that we leave it behind?
Dark ills may betide us, but fate cannot guide us
Where foes are more bitter, or friends are less kind,
Than we've found them at home; but the word is—away!—
Then, Ellen, my sweet one, look up and be gay.

Now twilight comes o'er us, and dimness hath bound us,
And the lighthouse looks forth from its sur-beaten height;
Like Hope's gentle beamings, thro' Sorrow's deep dreamings,
Or the loadstar of mem'ry to hours of delight.
Tho' self-exil'd, we sever from England for ever,
We'll make a new home in a country afar;
And we'll build us a bower where stern pride hath no power,
Nor wealth can oppress us, our bliss thus to mar.
We have broken our chain, and the word is—away!

THE WINDS ARE FREE.

The Poetry by Leigh Cliffe, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Con molto Anima.

The winds are free,— in spor-tive glee, They can play with the rude waves mer-ri-ly, And bound and leap o-ver vale and steep, Or calm as a dream-less in-fant sleep, When the sunbeams bright spread a gir - dle of light, And burst from the clou - dy bed of night; They roar to see . . . the bliss for me . . . . Of all, or a - ny thing, that's free. I love, I love, oh! I love the free, — I love, I love the free; I love, I love, oh! I love the free; I love, I love, I love the free!

Not even man, whom nature's plan
 Was to free, from the time his life began,
 Can, like the wind, be unconfin'd,
 For he is fetter'd in heart or mind: [beam
 Though his young day-dream be as bright as the
 Of the sun that tints the flowing stream,
 He ne'er can be like the winds and sea,
 For nature made and keeps them free.

I love, I love, oh! I love the free.

The winds are free, — in sportive glee,
 They can play with the rude waves merrily;
 And bound and leap over vale and steep,
 Or calm as a dreamless infant sleep.
 The eagle that flies in the tempest-torn skies
 Enjoys that pure freedom I would prize;
 Like him I'd be, for happy is he, —
 Wild and daring thing, he's free!

THE OCEAN, OR THE MERRY MARINERS.

The Music by Henry Russell. — Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Allegro Vivace.

Blow, blow, wild winds, blow, for our course we'll pur - sue, Ca - pri - cious old Bo - reas, un - sha - ken by you, Ca - pri - cious old Bo - - reas, un - shaken, un - shaken by you. And if with ill - na - ture you mut - ter and growl, Why, we'll still keep our way, and sing while you howl! So, if with ill - nature you mutter and growl, Why, we'll still keep our way, and sing while you howl; Why, we'll still keep our way, and sing while you howl; - - - - Why, we'll still keep our way, and sing, and sing while you howl; Why, we'll still keep our way, And sing, and sing while you howl.

Blow, blow, and unfurling our sails to the gale,
 It shall waft us along, as o'er ocean we sail:

We'll outstrip the breeze, and we'll buffet the blast,
 And like merry mariners sing to the last.

So, if with ill-nature, &c.

SONG OF THE MARINERS.

Poetry by Eliza Cook; Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

Choose ye who will earth's daz-zling bow'rs, But the great and glo-ri-ous sea be ours; Give us, give us the dol-phin's home, With the speed-ing keel and splashing foam! Right mer-ry are we as the sound bark springs On her lone-ly track, like a crea-ture of wings, O! the ma-ri-ner's life is blithe and gay! The wind is fair, and the ship's on her way,— We are the free, the free! We are the free! We are the free, the free! We are the free!

We love the perilous sea because
It will not bend to man or his laws:
It ever hath roll'd, the uncontroll'd;
It cannot be warp'd to fashion or mould.
We are not so apt to forget our God,
As those who dwell on the dry safe sod;
And the chafing tide, as it rolls and swells,
Hath a deeper sound than the old church bells—
We are the free! &c.

'Tis here we may sink 'mid the deluge and blast,
But we cope with the strong, and are quell'd by the vast;
And a noble urn is the founder'd wreck,
Tho' no incense may burn, and no flow'r may deck.
We need no stately fun'ral-car,
But, tangled with weeds and lash'd to a spar
Down, down below we mariners go,
While thunders volley and hurricanes blow—
We are the free! &c.

TIME IS A BLESSING.

The Words by I. R.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, Nos. 511-12, Price 6d.

Allegro Moderato.

Oh! Time is a bless-ing, sent by God, For the use not a-buse of man; And woe to him who shall ev-er presume To frus-trate his Ma-ker's plan. The sun hath its time of go-ing down, The birds know their hour of rest; Then why is it that man should be By his fel - low man op - press'd? by his fel - low man op - press'd?

Oh! why should the hour of toil endure,
Till the head and heart grow faint?

Is it because the mind of man
Is better for such restraint?
Need leisure hours be idle hours,
And tend to corrupt the mind?

No! brotherly love is the only chain
That master and man should bind.

Go, ask ye of him whose sunken cheek
Proclaims a life of care,

How many hours of the twenty-four
He for wife and child can spare?
Oh! long ere he wearily seeks his home
His children are gone to rest;—

Little they know of a father's love,
Or the anguish that rends his breast.

Who would not toil for those he loves?

But, alas! human nature is weak,
And if time be not given for mental food,
Some other resource man will seek:
At the hour of ten, at the closing hour,
When the spirits require relief,
He rushes to scenes where excitement dwells,
To drown for a while his grief.

Ye dispensers of time, oh, remember your trust!
Close early, you'll never repent:

Oh! why should a blessing by man be denied
That our Heavenly Father has sent.

Close early, close early, you'll have your reward—
Believe me I say what is true:

Those who have time to seek after their God
Will be the most faithful to you.

THE LADY LEAVES THE BANQUET HALL.

The Poetry by Charles Arnold, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

The la - dy leaves the ban - quet hall, The hall of mirth and song; Still as the night her light steps fall, The mar - bled plain a - long; But oft she starts as the Mos - lem harps Ring forth their joy - ous joy - ous strain, And the la - dy sighs to list that sound She may ne - ver ne - ver hear a - gain, she may ne - ver ne - ver hear a - gain! - - - The la - dy leaves the fes - tive hall, The hall of dance and song; Light - ly her trem - bing footsteps fall, the shin - ing courts a - long.

Where doth she glide so silently,
From those who love her well?
Why did she shun her father's eye,
When chim'd the midnight bell?
Ask the young knight who reins his steed,
Beside yon portal low.

She hath become the Christian's bride
And from Palestine must go;
For him she steals so silently,
From the bower of her birth,
To seek a home in Christendy,
Far from her sunny earth.

THE OLDEN TIME AND THE PRESENT TIME.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Andante con Espressione.

The old - en time, The old - en time, how peo - ple love to praise In prose and rhyme The old - en time in old queen Bess's days I The pre - sent time's a plea - sant time, If men would but a - gree To let the time just take its time, and pass in mirth and glee; The old - en time, The old - en time be - longs to his - to - ry; Let sa - ges pore its pa - ges o'er, the pre - sent time . . . for me! The old - en time, the old - en time be - longs to his - to - ry; Let sa - ges pore its pa - ges o'er, the pre - sent time for me!

What though this time, this present time, —
Has swallow'd up the past,
The future time, the future time,
Will swallow this as fast.

Then take your time, and pass your time,
And good from ill divide,
Or, wanting time, you'll lose your time,
And then be cast aside. The olden time, &c.

BY THE CRIMSON HUE OF THE FAIR SUNSET.

Poetry by Leigh Cliffe, Esq.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 25, Price 3d.

Con Anima.

By the crim - son hue of the fair sunset, By the sky all dark - ly blue, Now the sink - ing sun the moon hath met, I love, I love but you. By the clust'ring stars so sparkling bright, by yon clouds of dus - ky hue, By the pale rays of the moon's clear light, I love, I love but you, I love, I love, I love, I love, I love but you, I love, . . . I love, I - love, I love but you.

By the birds that sing so merrily
In groves remote from view,
By the leaves that spring on the forest-tree,
I love, I love but you.

By the sun that shines so pleasantly,
'M'dst summer's skies bright blue,
By the white frost on grass and tree,
I love, I love but you.

A SONG FOR A STORMY NIGHT.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 205, Price 3d.

Quasi con Spirito.

The winds with-out, in their midnight rout, Howl through our case-ment drea-ri-ly; But sweet is our mirth, round the so-cial hearth, When cir-cles the wine cup cheer-i-ly; With a

ho, ho, ho, ho, ho, ho. Fill up the bowl, and stir up the coal, Make the flames mount bright and chee-ri-ly; We've right good cheer, and a welcome here, Tho' the fierce winds whis-tle wea-ri-ly, Oh . . . Yet, a-mid our glee, per-chance there be Some near us pi-ning wea-ri-ly; All nipp'd by the cold, some tra-vel-ler old, May be trudg-ing through snow-drifts drea-ri-ly; With a heigh ho, ho, ho, ho,

ho, With a heigh ho, . . . ho, ho, ho, ho, ho, ho, ho, ho.

Show, then, a light from our window to-night,

Let it gleam to guide him cheerily;

We've a chair and a jug, and a corner snug,

When he comes to our door so wearily;

With a heigh ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!

Never shall it be said that we, well fed,

By our fireside singing cheerily,

Could forget, this night, the bitter plight
Of the thousands pining wearily!Oh, throw open the door, to the old and poor,
They shall all be welcome cheerily;While there's 'bite or sup on our board or cup,
They never shall pass by wearily;

With a heigh ho, ho, ho, &amp;c.

THE WIFE'S DREAM.

The Words by I. R.— The Music by Henry Russell:

Con Passione.

‘Now tell me, Ma-ry, how it is that you can look so gay, When eve-ning af-ter eve-ning your husband is away? I ne-ver see you sulk or pout, or say an an-gry lento.
word; And yet you've plen-ty cause for tears, If all be true I've heard.’ ‘It is because, my sis-ter dear, a husband you ne'er wed, Nor saw your chil-dren gath'ring round, and ask-ing you for bread;— You ne'er can know how it be-comes a wo-man's lot, through life, To be, e'en to a drunk-ard's faults, a faith-ful lov-ing wife.

‘And yet I can recall the time when bitter tears I shed,
And, when my husband stagger'd home, what angry words I said; [seem,
I never thought that I could be as cheerful now I
Yet this happy change was brought about by a simple little dream.

‘One evening, as I sat beside our humble cottage-door,
And listen'd for my husband's step, as oft I'd done
before, [I said,
Some wicked thoughts came in my mind, and bitterly
“I never wish to see him more! oh, would that he were dead!”

‘They say the wretched cannot rest, but surely 'tis not so, [woe;
For very soon I fell asleep, 'midst tears of grief and I dream'd I had my wish fulfill'd—my husband was no more,— [o'er.
I fell upon his lifeless form, and kiss'd him o'er and “Oh, Dermot, darling, speak to me! I meant not what I said; [not dead!”

Oh, speak one word unto your wife—say, say you are “And sure I'm not, my Mary dear”—I woke up with a scream, [but a dream.
And found my husband standing by—his death was

‘And since that time, whene'er I feel disposed to be unkind, [my mind;
The warning of that fearful dream comes fresh upon
And, though it costs me many a pang to know the life he leads, [heart bleeds.
I try to greet him with a smile, when oft my poor

‘I'll humbly put my trust in God, and ask for strength to bear
The trials that he sends on earth for all of us to share;
And if by patience I can change my husband's wand'ring life, [wife!”
I'll bless the hour that dream was sent to his neglected

seem'd a solemn gloom! [in the room!
I miss'd my wife,—where can she be? and strangers

a wretched life, [drunkard's wife?”
Grief and want did break her heart,—who'd be a

 Then like a beast I fell asleep, and had this warning

“She is not dead,” I frantic cried, and rush'd to where she lay, [as clay:
 And madly kiss'd her once warm lips, for ever cold cause you pain; [again.

 No more I'll grieve your loving heart, nor ever drink

THE HAPPY CHANGE.

The Poetry by L. M. Thornton; the Music by Henry Russell.

Moderato.

You ask'd me, sis - ter, how it was that I ap - pear'd so gay, While eve-ning af - ter eve-ning my hus - band was a - way? You own'd I ne'er did frown or pout, or say an an - gry word, Al-though I'd plenty cause for tears, if all were true you heard. I told you how I rash - ly wish'd my hus-band dead might be; I told to you that dread-ful dream, so like re-al-ity, And said, if e'er by pa - tience I could change his wand' - ring life, I'd bless the hour that dream was sent to his neg - lec - ted wife.

A bed of sickness, sister dear, with its attendant woe,
 Oft teaches us a lesson which in health we rarely know;
 We think what now we might have been, and what alas! we are,
 And vow in dust what we will be, if God our lives will spare.
 Late hours, the drunkard's cup, for weeks had laid
 my husband low,
 When to his side he called me, and, as fast the tears
 did flow,
 He cried, 'For many years I've been a wicked man,
 'tis true,
 But God has pardon'd all my sins;—then, Mary,
 will not you?

'How nearly, dear, your awful dream to me fulfilled has been,
 But even from the darkest cloud are gleams of sunlight seen;
 And from the grave's dread brink I'm raised, a better man to prove,
 And be what long I should have been to her who thus can love. [day:—
 And he has been an alter'd man, my sister, from that No longer from his wife doth he with loose companions stray;
 All is one scene of happiness, and oft he doth exclaim, “Mary, I've liv'd to bless the hour that visitation came.”

CHARTER OAK.

The Poetry by Mrs. Sigourney.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury.

Andante con Espressione.

Char-ter Oak, char-ter Oak! tell us a tale Of the years that have fled, like the leaves on the gale, For thou bearest a brave an-nal on thy brown root and stem, And thy heart was a cas-ket for li-ber-ty's gem. Speak out in thy wis-dom, orac-u-lar tree, And we and our children will lis-ten to thee; For the love of the a-ged is dear in our eyes, Thy leaves and thy a-corns as re-lics we prize. Char-ter Oak, Charter Oak! tell us a tale Of the years that have fled like the leaves on the gale, For thou bear'st a brave annal on thy brown root and stem, And thy heart was a cas-ket for li-ber-ty's gem, And thy heart was a cas-ket for li-ber-ty's gem.

See them, they come, the dim ages of old,
The sires of our nation, true-hearted and bold;
The axe of the woodman rings sharp thro' the glade,
And the worn Indian hunter reclines in thy shade.
I see them, they come! the gray fathers are there,
Who won from the forest this heritage fair;

With their high trust in heaven they suffer'd or toil'd,
Both the tempest and tyrant unflinching they foil'd,
Charter Oak, Charter Oak! ancient and fair,
Thou didst guard of our freedom the rudiment rare,
So, a crown of green leaves be thy gift, noble tree,
With the love of the brave and the thanks of the free

Allegro con Anima.

flames are bla-zing chee-ri-ly. The moonbeam bright, of a summer night, Shineth but sad and wea-ri-ly, But jol-ly's the glow where the wine-cups flow, And the bright fire blazes cheerily, Oh!

Let the storms without, in their midnight rout,
Howl through the casement drearily,
We're merry within, round the blazing lian,
Where the wine-cup circles cheerily.

The moonbeam bright, of a summer night,
Shineth but sad and wearily,
But jolly's the glow where the wine-cups flow,
And the bright fire blazes cheerily.

THERE'S A GOOD TIME COMING.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, L.L.D.; the Music by Henry Russell.

There's a good time com-ing, boys, A good time com-ing: We may not live to see the day, But earth shall glis-ten in the ray Of the good time com-ing:

Can-non-balls may aid the truth, But thought's a wea-pon stronger; We'll win our bat-tle by its aid;— Wait a lit-tle lon-ger. There's a good time com-ing, boys, A good time coming; There's a good time com-ing, boys;— Wait a lit-tle lon-ger.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
The pen shall supersede the sword,
And right, not might, shall be the lord,
In the good time coming,
Worth, not birth, shall rule mankind,
And be acknowledg'd stronger;
The proper impulse has been given;—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
War in all men's eyes shall be
A monster of iniquity
In the good time coming.
Nations shall not quarrel then,
To prove which is the stronger,
Nor slaughter men for glory's sake;—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
Hateful rivalries of creed
Shall not make their martyrs bleed,
In the good time coming,
Religion shall be shorn of pride,
And flourish all the stronger;
And charity shall trim her lamp;—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
And a poor man's family
Shall not be his misery,
In the good time coming:

Every child shall be a help
To make his rigat arm stronger;
The happier he the more he has;—
Wait a little longer.

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
Little children shall not toil,
Under or above the soil,
In the good time coming:
But shall play in healthful fields,
Till limbs and mind grow stronger;
And every one shall read and write;—
Wait a little longer.

[There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming:
The people shall be temperate,
Abhor what may intoxicate,
In the good time coming.
They shall use and not abuse,
And make all virtue stronger;
The re-formation has begun;—
Wait a little longer.]

There's a good time coming, boys,
A good time coming;
Let us aid it all we can,
Every woman, every man,
The good time coming.
Smallest helps, if rightly given,
Make the impulse stronger;
'Twill be strong enough one day;—
Wait a little longer.

LET'S BE GAY.

The Music by Henry Russell.

Allegro con Anima.

Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—Haha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—We'll quaff, we'll quaff from this cup, haha! Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—Haha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—We'll quaff, we'll quaff from this cup, ha, ha! 'Tis night all around us, The chill blast is howling; 'Tis night all around us, The chill blast is howl-ing, is howl-ing away; 'Tis howl-ing a-way; Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—Haha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! Let's be gay, let's be gay, let's be gay, boys—We'll quaff, we'll quaff from this cup, ha ha! 'Tis night all around us, 'tis night all a-round us,

'tis night all a-round us. Drink, boys, drink, drink, boys, drink, drink a-way, boys, drink, drink, drink, The sun's ap-pear-ing now; Haha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! Drink a-way, boys, drink, drink, drink, The sun's ap-pear-ing now; Haha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha 1st time. 2nd time.

ha ha ha! ha ha ha! ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! Drink, boys, drink! Drink a-way, boys, drink, drink, drink; The sun's ap-pear-ing now,— But let the draught, but let the draught, but let the draught, let the draught be wa-ter, be wa-ter! Ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! ha!

Drink a-way, boys, drink, drink, drink, The sun's ap-pear-ing now; Drink, a-way, boys, drink, drink,—But let the draught be wa-ter, wa-ter,—But let the draught be wa-ter, wa-ter!—Ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha! - -

THE GREENWOOD TREE.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 196, Price 3d.

Grazioso con Anima.

The sol-dier bold, when the bu-gles sound, Must start from his plea-sant sleep, To mea-sure a-lone his wea-ry round, On the gloo-my cas-tle keep; But we, mer-ry men, in the path-less woods, Where the nim-ble wild deer run, We rise when we will, and sleep when we can, And bend the knee to none. Oh, a mer-ry life is ours, I ween, At morn in the fo-rest free, And

Ad lib. A Tempo

quaffing at e'en the jol-ly brown ale, All un-der the green-wood tree.

The monk must go when the abbot calls,
To chaunt his vesper hymn ;
And warder watch from his loophole grate,
At the hour of midnight dim ;

But we, merry men, in the gay greenwood
We own no master's sway ;
But live to be happy when we can,
And jolly while we may.

Oh, a merry life, &c.

THE WIFE'S SONG.

The Poetry by a Lady; the Music by Henry Russell.—Published in Davidson's Cheap and Uniform Edition of his Compositions.

E - le - ven years have pass'd a - way Since I be - came a bride, And left my na - tive land with thee, To cross the o - cean wide; To cross, to cross the o - cean wide: No store of world - ly wealth had we, To cheer our path through life; But thou wert

all in all to me— I was thy hap - py wife!

But, when Colombia's free-born sons
Thy matchless talent knew,
With buoyant hope for fortune's smiles
Thou bad'st thy wife adieu;
One blessed pledge of love was ours,
To cheer my lonely life;

And, as I heard thy fame resound,
I felt a happy wife!

Year after year roll'd on its course,
Yet time brought some allow:
Again I felt a mother's pains,
And felt a mother's joy.

Thou wert not there to join their sports,
Nor watch their playful strife;
And, as I press'd them to my heart,
I felt a mournful wife!

But now the storm has pass'd away:
Like Noah's wand'ring dove,
I've found, at last, a resting-place,
A happy home of love.

May'st thou, dear husband! ever find,
In future days through life,
For blessings that I now enjoy,
I am a grateful wife!

RESIGNATION.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 488, Price 3d.
Andante con Espress.

In cold mis-for-tune's cheer-less day, When joy and peace and love de-part, When friends de-ceive and hopes de-cay, And sor-rows press the hea-vy heart, And sor-rows press the hea - - vy heart; Lord, thou canst a re - lief im-part,—'Tis

Thou canst cheer the wound-ed mind, 'Tis Thou canst heal af - fic-tion's smart!

Teach us to pray, and be resign'd; Teach us to pray, and - - - be - - re-sign'd.

And, O! should changeful fortune frown,
Or those we love prove true no more,
Should death's relentless hand cut down
Those who return'd the love we bore;

Still let us worship and adore,
And seek the peace we yet may find;—
Teach us, O! Father, we implore,
To trust in Thee, and be resign'd.

THE INFINITUDE OF MERCY.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 462, Price 3d.
Andantino.

Say not that a-ny crime of man Was e'er too great to be forgiv'n: Can we within our lit-tle span En-grasp the view-less mind of Heav'n? Shall we at-tempt with pu - ny force To lash back o-ccean with a rod, Ar-rest the pla-nets in their course, Or weigh the mer-cies of - - a God? Say not that a - ny crime of man Was e'er too great to be forgiv'n; Can we with-in our lit-tle span En-grasp the view-less mind of Heav'n?

Our mercies like ourselves may be Small, finite, and ungracious ever,
May spurn a brother's bended knee,—
But God forsakes the contrite never!

Vast as Himself, they shine above,
To eyes that look through sorrow's tear;
Great though the crime, great is the love,
If those who seek it are sincere.

ALMIGHTY SPIRIT.

The Poetry by Eliza Cook.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 242, Price 3d.

Andante con Espressione.

Al - migh - ty Spi - rit! Fa - ther, Lord! Thou worshipp'd, Thou unknow'n! Whose mys - tic glo - ry spreadeth round a u - ni - ver - sal throne, Hear thou my song of praise and love, hear thou my song, oh God! My tem - ple - dome is thy broad sky, my kneel - ing - place thy sod.

I thank thee, God, enough of joy has mark'd my span of days,

To fill my heart with gratitude, and wake the words of praise;

I have accepted at thy hands much more of good than ill, And all of trouble has but shown the wisdom of thy will.

I see the climbing sun disperse the misty clouds of night,

And pour devotion to the One who said 'Let there be light!'

I watch the peeping star that gleams from out the hazy west,

And offer thanks to Him who gave his creatures hours of rest.

I see the crystal dew-drop stand upon the bending stem,

And find as much of glory there as in the diamond gem;

I look upon the yellow fields, I pluck the wild hedge-flow'r, And pause to bless Thy lavish hand, and wonder at its pow'r.

I see too much of happiness for human hearts to find,

To hold the Maker that bestows as aught else but the kind:

Let man be but as kind to man, and soon our woe and strife

Would fade away like mists, and leave us well content with life.

And what is death, that e'en its thought should make us sigh and weep?

The grave, to me, but seems a couch of sound and holy sleep.

Why should I dread the fiat, when my trusting spirit knows

That he who bids my eyelids fall will watch their last repose?

OH, WHY SHOULD WE BEWAIL THE DEAD.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 464, Price 3d.

Affetuoso.

Oh, why should we be - wail the dead? Why sor - row o'er their nar - row bed? Have they not sought the hap - py shore, Where hu - man cares op - press no more.

Be - wail them not! more bless'd than we, From mor - tal woes and an - guish free; Their par - ted spi - rits rest in peace, In the still land where trou - bles cease.

Bewail them not! their bright abode

Is with a Father and a God;

Freed from corruption's cold embrace,

They see th' Almighty face to face.

Then weep not for the quiet dead,

Nor sorrow o'er their narrow bed;

For, in the land where troubles cease,

Their parted spirits rest in peace.

THE DOVE OF NOAH.

The Poetry by Charles Mackay, LL.D.

Published, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, in Davidson's Musical Treasury, No. 463, Price 3s.

Moderato con Espress.

Hope on her wings and God her guide, The Dove of No-ah soar'd Far through the dim un-fathom'd space, Where shore-less o - cean roar'd, - Where shoreless o - cean roar'd; But ah! she found no val-ley green, No rest-ing-place, no track, Un - till the peace-ful ark receiv'd The wea-ry wand'rer back. - - - Hope on her wings, and God her guide, The Dove of No-ah soar'd, Far through the dim unfathom'd space, Where shoreless o - cean roar'd.

So we, on life's tempestuous sea,
Beset with grief and pain,
May seek a solace here below,
And find the search in vain.
A resting-place for weary man
Is only found above;

The ark to which the soul returns
Is the Almighty's love:
So we, on life's tempestuous sea,
Beset with grief and pain,
May seek a so'ace here below,
But find the search in vain.

Thou art, O God! the fount di-vine, From whence all earth - ly blessings flow: Wheree'er we turn, thy glo - ries shine, And all things praise thee here be - low. The ra - dian sun which gilds the day, The count - less stars that gem the night, Owe all their splendour to thy sway, Great source of all things fair and bright! If Pil-grim thoughts as - cend on high, All things a - dore thee! so do I!

We hail, O God! the vital ray,
With holy inspiration rife:—
Its bright reflection points the way
Which leads to everlasting life.
The changing seasons, as they roll,

Thy pow'r and wisdom, Lord, proclaim!
All creatures join, from pole to pole,
In loud hosannas to thy name!
If Pilgrim pray'rs are heard on high,
All things adore thee! so do I!
