NEW-YORK:

FOR SALE BY F. D. ALLEN, 66 CHATHAM-ST. AND 189 DUANE-ST.; ALSO, BY THE PRINCIPAL BOOK AND MUSIC SELLERS IN THE CITY.

1826.

Southern District of New-York, ss.

BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the tenth day of April, in the forty-sixth year of the Independence of the United States of America, FRANCIS D. ALLEN, of the said District, hath deposited in this office the title of a book, the right whereof he claims as proprietor, in the words following, to wit:

"The New-York Selection of Sacred Music; containing a great variety of Plain, Repeating, and Fugue Tunes. In Two Parts. Part First contains one hundred and twenty tunes, of that plain, solid, and devotional style, which is best adapted to congregational use. Part Second is composed of Plain, Repeating, and Fugue Tunes. The whole arranged and intended for the various metres in Watts, Dwight, Dobell, Rippon, Dutch Reformed, Tate and Brady, Sternhold, Hopkins, and others. Carefully compiled from the best European and American Authors. By F. D. Allen."

In conformity to the Act of Congress of the United States, entitled "An Act for the encouragement of Learning by securing the copies of Maps, Charts, and Books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the time therein mentioned." And also to an Act entitled "An Act, supplementary to an Act, entitled an Act for the encouragement of Learning, by securing the copies of Maps, Charts, and Books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned; and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing, engraving, and etching historical and other prints."

JAMES DILL,
Clerk of the Southern District of New-York.

A FEW GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

To constitute a good singer, the first requisite is a correct ear; secondly, a quick susceptibility of the effect the poet and composer wish to produce; and, thirdly, a fine voice and capability of expressing the subject.

A certain degree of applause is always bestowed on power and sweetness of tone; but to produce effect on others, the performer must feel the passion with which he wishes to inspire his hearers.

Those who get at the force and meaning of the words, and pronounce them with the same sensibility of expression as they would in speaking, possess an accomplishment in singing beyond what all the art in the world can convey.

A solo singer would always find it to his advantage to read over the words until he understands the meaning of the author before he sounds a note; by so doing he would seldom fail to give effect to the whole piece.

Singers, especially in the performance of psalmody, are too apt to neglect the important duty of pronouncing accurately and intelligibly. Hence we so often hear such mouthings and chewing of words, together with a certain nasal intonation, by which the subject is frequently rendered as uninteresting to the hearer as so many empty sounds. Such singing may very properly be compared to those pictures, under which it is necessary to write, "This is a Dog," and "This is a Horse."

Articulation and expression form the chief excellence of music; without these it may amuse the ear—it may give a little exercise to the mind of the hearer—it may, for a moment, withdraw his attention from the anxieties of life—it may show the performer's dexterity, the skill of the composer, and the excellence of the instruments; and in all or any of these ways it may afford a slight pleasure: but without engaging the affections it can never yield that permanent, useful, and heartfelt satisfaction of which it is capable, and which is expected from it. In fact, it is in articulation that vocal music has the preference to instrumental—for, while the ear is delighted, the mind is informed.

In church music, great care should be observed in adaptation; if the words be cheerful, let them be sung to a lively or cheerful tune—if the subject be confession or sorrow, a plaintive or minor air should be chosen. This selection, however, cannot always be made with certainty, inasmuch as the Hymns or Psalms are frequently written without sufficient regard to unity of subject. It is not uncommon to find two or three subjects introduced in as many verses of the same Psalm; to meet this, it would be necessary to introduce as many different tunes, which would be improper in congregational worship. But still the errors in adaptation which so often occur in Churches, and which are absolutely ridiculous, too frequently arise, either from the carelessness or ignorance of the Chorister, in the choice of his tunes. I have heard the 51st Psalm, "Show pity, Lord, O Lord forgive," and "Lord, I am vile," &c. sung to Old Hundred; and the 117th Psalm, "From that all that dwell below the sky," sung to Windham. Such selections, to say the least of them, are injudicious.

MUSICAL TERMS EXPLAINED.

- Accord.* To agree in pitch and tone.
- Adagio.* The slowest, with grace and embellishment.
- Ad Libitum.* At pleasure of the performer.
- Allegro.* Gay, quick.
- Affetuoso.* Tender and affecting, requiring a soft and delicate style of performance.
- Andante.* Somewhat slow, and a performance distinct and soothing.
- Articulation.* There is no word in the whole vocabulary of music of more importance than articulation. It applies equally to vocal and instrumental performance; to words and to notes; and includes that distinctness and accuracy of expression, which gives every syllable and sound with truth and perspicuity, and forms the very foundation of pathos and grace.
- Allegretto.* Not so quick as allegro.
- Appogiature.* A small note of embellishment.
- Alto.* Counter-tenor part.
- Air.* Generally means what the ear realizes from the melody, or harmony. In a special sense, it is the subject or leading part, and should be sung by female or treble voices.
- Crescendo.* A term signifying that the notes of the passage over which it is placed, are to be gradually swelled.
- Chromatic.* This scale consists in a succession, or continuation of melody that proceeds by semitones, as well in descending as ascending, which produces a surprising effect in harmony.

- The greatest part of these semitones not being in a diatonic form and process, causes, at every instant, some discords, which suspend or interrupt a conclusion, without altering the diatonic order in the other part or parts.
- Da Capo, or D. C.* Close with the first strain.
- Duett.* A piece of music consisting of two parts.
- Diatonic.* That species of music in which both tones and semitones are used.
- Deminuendo.* Decreasing or softening the sound.
- Fort.* Strong and loud.
- Fortissimo.* Very loud.
- Moderato.* A movement between andante and allegro.
- Oratorio.* A collection of sacred vocal pieces composed in a dramatic style.
- Orchestre.* The place, or band of musical performers.
- Overture.* Is an instrumental strain, which introduces the succeeding strain.
- Piano.* Soft.
- Quintett.* Music composed in five parts, in which each part is concertant.
- Quartett.* Music composed in four parts, in which each part is concertant.
- Solo.* A part composed for a single voice.
- Trio.* A composition for three voices.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

HAVING examined, with considerable attention, a publication, entitled, "The New-York Selection of Sacred Music," by F. D. Allen, we, the subscribers, being desirous of promoting uniformity in the Psalmody of the Churches, as far as practicable; and being persuaded that this "Selection" has been made with much care and judgment, and that it is well adapted to promote the important object which the Compiler professes to have had in view, viz. the improvement of the public taste as to style of Sacred Music for congregational use, very cheerfully recommend the work to the notice and patronage of the public.

Being well acquainted with Mr. Allen's reputation as a Teacher of Sacred Music, and with his anxiety to have the system of Psalmody adapted to the simplicity and majesty of divine worship, I entertain a perfect confidence that his "Selection" will be acceptable to those whose piety and taste desire a form of church music, which shall be the handmaid, and not the mistress, of their public devotions.

THERE are seven primitive degrees of sound, which are placed or represented on five lines, with their spaces, called a Stave,

These lines and spaces are designated by the first seven letters of the alphabet; A, B, C, D, E, F, G.

Nature has divided voices into at least four kinds, varying in acuteness or gravity. The Treble is the highest, and of consequence will always lead, or be heard above the rest; the Counter is the next lower; the Tenor next, and the Bass the lowest. These are designated by different characters, called Cliffs. The Treble Cliff  is placed on the second line, which is G; the Counter Cliff  on the third line, which is C;

the Bass Cliff  on the fourth line, which is F. The Cliffs are called by the names of the letters they represent, and the letters on the other lines and spaces are reckoned from them.

 If B and E be flat, mi is in . . . A | If F and C be sharp, mi is in . . . C
 If B, E and A be flat, mi is in D | If F, C and G be sharp, mi is in G
 If B, E, A and D be flat, mi is in G | If F, C, G and D be sharp, mi is in D

From mi to fa, and from la to fa, are half tones. Above mi, ascending, is fa, sol, la, fa, sol, la, then comes mi; descending, la, sol, fa, la, sol, fa, then comes mi again.

Names and proportions of the Notes and Rests.

Semibreve. Minim. Crotchet, Quaver. Semiquaver. Demisemiquaver.

One semibreve is equal to two minims, four crotchets, eight quavers, sixteen semiquavers, or thirty-two demisemiquavers.

Other musical characters are,

1. Flat. 2. Sharp. 3. Natural. 4. Dot. 5. Slur. 6. Hold. 7. Repeat. 8. Choise notes.

9. Figure. 10. Trill. 11. Appoggiatura. 12. Bar. 13. Double Bar. 14. Staccato marks.

15. Brace. 16. Leger lines. 17. Direct. 18. Swell. 19. Figures. 20. Close.

Explanation of the characters numbered in the preceding page.

1. A Flat, set before a note, sinks it half a tone.
2. A Sharp, set before a note, raises it half a tone.
3. A Natural, restores a note made flat or sharp, to its original sound.
4. A Dot, after a note, adds to it one half its original length.
5. A Slur, is drawn over or under those notes which are sung to one syllable.
6. The Hold, shows that the sound of the note over which it is placed, may be continued longer than its usual length.
7. The Repeat, shows what part of a tune is to be sung twice, and is placed at the beginning and end of the strain to be repeated.
8. Choice notes, give the performer liberty to sing which he pleases.
9. The Figure 3, over or under three notes, directs that they be performed in the time of two of the same kind.
10. The Trill, shows that the note over which it is placed, should be shaken.
11. The Appoggiaturas, are small notes which divide the time of the principal note, unless it be followed by a point or rest, and then they take the whole time of the principal note, and that takes the time of the point or rest only.
12. The Bar, divides the time into equal parts, according to its measure note.
13. A Double Bar, shows the end of a strain.
14. Notes having Staccato Marks should be performed distinctly; and when dots are used instead of marks, the performance should be soft and distinct.
15. The Brace, connects those parts of a tune which move together.
16. Leger Lines, are lines drawn through such notes as exceed the compass of the stave.
17. A Direct, set at the end of a stave, points to the first note in the next stave.

18. Figures 1 2, show that the note under 1 is to be sung the first time, and that under 2 the second; but if slurred together, both are sung at the repeat.
19. A Swell, begins piano, gradually increases to forte, and then diminishes in the same manner.
20. A Close, shows the end of a tune.

Sharps or Flats placed at the beginning of a tune, affect the letters on which they stand, throughout the piece, unless contradicted by a natural, which replaces them in their original state, for that bar only in which it may occur. But if the natural is continued through a strain, or any number of bars, it takes off the power of the flat or sharp, and the strain ought to be performed in its original key. Accidental flats and sharps, or naturals, when set before notes in the course of the piece, affect every note on that line or space in the bar.

OF TIME.

There are three kinds of time, viz. Common, Triple, and Compound.

COMMON TIME.

- This mood denotes the slowest movement; each bar including one semibreve for its measure, or other notes and rests in proportion, with four beats, two down and two up, in about four seconds.
- First Mood.*
- Second Mood.*
- Contains one semibreve in each bar, and four beats, two down and two up, unless the movement be very brisk, then one down and one up is sufficient.

Third Mood.  Contains one semibreve in each bar, and two beats, one down and one up.

Fourth Mood.  Contains one minim in each bar, and two beats, one down and one up.

TRIPLE TIME.

First Mood.  Contains three minims in each bar, two beats down and one up.

Second Mood.  Contains three crotchets in a bar, two beats down and one up.

Third Mood.  Contains three quavers in a bar, two beats down and one up.

COMPOUND TIME.

First Mood.  Contains two pointed minims in each bar, with two beats, one down and one up.

Second Mood.  Contains two pointed crotchets in each bar, with two beats, one down and one up.

N. B. The hand falls at the beginning of every measure, in all kinds of time,

EIGHT NOTES.

With the half tones marked.

sol la mi fa sol la fa sol sol fa la sol fa mi la sol

In raising or falling the Eight Notes, from mi to fa, and from la to fa, are semi or half tones.

KEYS IN MUSIC.

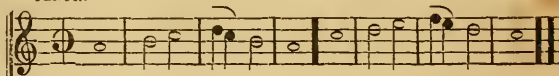

There are but two natural or primitive keys in music, viz.—C the sharp or major, and A the flat or minor key; all the others are called artificial. The last note in the base is the key note, which is the first note above or below the mi; if above, it is in a major key—if below, it is in a minor key.

An example of the two Natural Keys.

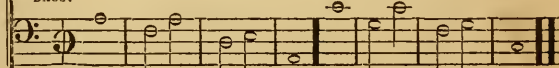

A, the Natural Minor Key.

C, the Natural Major Key.

TENOR.

BASS.

The first is called A the natural minor key, by reason of having the less-er third, sixth, and seventh above its key. The second is called C, the natural major key; it having the greater third, sixth, and seventh above its key.

INTRODUCTION.

OF THE MODULATION OF KEYS.

The modulation or changing of the key note from one letter or given tone to another, being so frequent in every regular composition, the performer will be continually embarrassed, unless he endeavours to acquire a habit of discerning those changes.

The transitions of the key from one letter to another, are sometimes effected by gradual preparation, and at other times in an abrupt manner.

When the change is gradual, the new key is announced either by a Sharp, Flat, or Natural. When the change is sudden and abrupt, the usual signs at the beginning of the stave, are either altered or removed. A few examples of the more usual transitions are here subjoined.

Examples of Transitions in the Major Mode from one Key to another.

Key of C into G by a sharp on F.

Key of G into D by an additional Sharp on C.

Key of C into F by a flat on B.

Key of F into C by a natural on B.

Musical notation for four examples of key transitions in the major mode. Each example is shown on a grand staff (treble and bass clefs).
1. Key of C into G by a sharp on F: Treble clef, C major scale, F is natural, then F# is introduced.
2. Key of G into D by an additional Sharp on C: Treble clef, G major scale, C is natural, then C# is introduced.
3. Key of C into F by a flat on B: Treble clef, C major scale, B is natural, then Bb is introduced.
4. Key of F into C by a natural on B: Treble clef, F major scale, B is flat, then B is natural.

Examples of Transitions in the Minor Mode from one Key to another.

Key of A natural to E by one Sharp

Key of E into B by an additional Sharp on C.

Key of D into A by a Natural on B.

Major Key of C into the Minor of A.

Musical notation for four examples of key transitions in the minor mode. Each example is shown on a grand staff (treble and bass clefs).
1. Key of A natural to E by one Sharp: Treble clef, A major scale, then E major scale (one sharp).
2. Key of E into B by an additional Sharp on C: Treble clef, E major scale, then B major scale (two sharps).
3. Key of D into A by a Natural on B: Treble clef, D major scale, then A major scale (B is natural).

2. As the winged arrow flies
Speedily the mark to find;
As the light'ning from the skies
Darts, and leaves no trace behind;
Swiftly thus our fleeting days
Bear us down life's rapid stream;
Upwards, Lord, our spirits raise,
All below is but a dream.
