This image shows three staves of handwritten musical notation on aged, yellowed paper. The notation consists of vertical stems or strokes of varying lengths, often with small horizontal dashes, indicating pitch and rhythm. The first two staves begin with a clef that looks like a stylized 'G' or 'C'. The third staff begins with a clef that looks like a stylized 'F'. The music is divided into measures by vertical bar lines. There are several instances of slurs and grace notes. In the middle section of the first staff, there is handwritten text: 'Loh der Hl. d. am gelan' and 'd. am gelan'. In the middle section of the second staff, there is handwritten text: 'd. am gelan' and 'd. am gelan'. In the bottom right section of the third staff, there is handwritten text: 'Rhythmus für die Figur'.

The image displays a single page from a handwritten musical manuscript. The music is organized into five systems, each consisting of a five-line staff. The notation is in black ink on a light-colored, aged piece of paper. Handwritten lyrics in German are integrated into the music, appearing above certain notes or groups of notes. These lyrics include "Hallelujah", "Kreuz", and "Kreuz". There are also some illegible markings and signatures. The paper shows significant signs of age, including yellowing and foxing.

A handwritten musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, Bass) and continuo. The score consists of ten staves of music with corresponding German lyrics written underneath each staff. The music is in common time, with various key signatures (G major, C major, F major, B-flat major, E major). The vocal parts are written in soprano, alto, and bass clef. The continuo part is indicated by a bass clef and a 'C' with a sharp sign. The lyrics describe a scene of divine judgment and salvation, mentioning the cross, resurrection, and the final judgment. The score includes sections for 'Recitativ' and 'Aria'.

Handwritten lyrics from the score:
