

LLEWELYN'S BRIDE.

Written by MRS CRAWFORD.

Composed by GEORGE BARKER.

The great Llewelyn, the last prince that Wales had as a sovereign state, made the most strenuous and gallant efforts, in the reign of the first Edward, to regain the independence of his native country. He achieved many brilliant victories; and, although he met with occasional reverses, he successfully resisted, for a series of years, all the forces which the powerful English monarch could bring against him.

Llewelyn married the lady Eleanor, (daughter of the Countess of Leicester,) whose conjugal affection this ballad was intended to commemorate.

ANDANTE.

The musical score is written in 6/8 time and B-flat major. It consists of three systems. The first system is a piano introduction with a treble clef and a bass clef. The treble clef part features a melodic line with a crescendo hairpin and a 'Staccato' marking. The bass clef part provides a harmonic accompaniment with a 'Staccato' marking. The second system continues the piano introduction. The third system begins with a vocal line in the treble clef, with the lyrics 'Oh! sweet-ly now my sol-dier sleeps, While' underneath. The piano accompaniment for this system is marked 'pp' and consists of chords in the treble clef and a bass line in the bass clef.

Oh hush! I may not break his sleep,
 He's weary from the fight;
 I'll closer to his pillow creep,
 And watch him all the night:
 I'll guard him with a miser's care,
 Sole treasure of my heart!
 And this, be this my silent prayer,
 We never more may part.
 Llewelyn dear! Llewelyn dear!
 That we no more may part,
 Llewelyn dear! Llewelyn dear!
 That we no more may part.
