No. 1.

OVERTURE.

Allegro molto.

The musical score is written for piano and consists of six systems of music. The first system begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one flat (B-flat), and a common time signature (C). The tempo is marked 'Allegro molto'. The first measure is marked with a forte dynamic (ff). The score includes various musical notations such as slurs, ties, and dynamic markings like p (piano) and cres. (crescendo). The piece concludes with a final cadence in the sixth system.

This musical score is for the second part of the piece 'Cox and Box'. It consists of eight systems of music, each with a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 2/4. The score includes various dynamic markings: cres (crescendo), do. (singing 'do'), f (forte), ff (fortissimo), and pp (pianissimo). The piano part features complex textures with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes, often in a tremolo-like pattern. The vocal line is primarily a single note, 'do', with some melodic movement in the final system. The piece concludes with a final flourish in the piano part.

First system of musical notation, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The music is marked with a forte dynamic (f) and includes various chordal textures and melodic lines.

Second system of musical notation, continuing the piece. It includes dynamic markings such as f and ff, and features some slurred passages.

Third system of musical notation, marked with sf (sforzando). It includes a Ped. (pedal) marking at the end of the system.

Fourth system of musical notation, featuring a melodic line in the treble clef with a star symbol (*) below it.

Fifth system of musical notation, marked with sf and Ped. (pedal). It includes a star symbol (*) at the end of the system.

Sixth system of musical notation, marked with sf and featuring slurred passages in both hands.

Seventh system of musical notation, marked with Pesante. (heavy), indicating a change in tempo and dynamics.

SCENE.—A Room, decently furnished; at C. a bed, with curtains closed; at L. C. a door; at 3 E. L. a door; at 2 E. L. a chest of drawers; at back R. a window; at 3 E. R. a door; at 2 E. R. a fireplace, with mantelpiece; table and chairs, a few common ornaments on chimney piece.

COX, dressed, with the exception of his coat, is looking at himself in a small looking-glass, which he holds in his hand.

COX. I've half a mind to register an oath that I'll never have my hair cut again! (his hair is very short.) And I was particularly emphatic in my instructions to the hair-dresser only to cut the ends off. He must have thought I meant the other ends! Never mind, I shan't meet anybody to care about so early. Eight o'clock, I declare I haven't a moment to lose. Fate has placed me with the most punctual, particular, and peremptory of hatters, and I must fulfil my destiny. (knock at L. C. D.) Open locks, whoever knocks!

Enter SERJEANT BOUNCER.

BOUNCER. Good morning, Colonel Cox. I hope you slept comfortably, Colonel.

COX. I can't say I did, B. I should feel obliged to you, if you could accommodate me with a more protuberant bolster, B. The one I've got now seems to me to have about a handful and a half of feathers at each end, and nothing whatever in the middle.

BOUN. Anything to accommodate you, Captain Cox.

COX. Thank you. Then perhaps you'll be good enough to hold this glass, while I finish my toilet.

BOUN. Certainly, (holding glass before COX, who ties on his cravat.) Why, I do declare, you've had your hair cut!

COX. Cut! It strikes me I've had it mowed! It's very kind of you to mention it, but I'm sufficiently conscious of the absurdity of my personal appearance already. I look as if I'd been cropped for the Militia—

BOUN. The Militia!—I recollect when I was in the Militia.

COX. Ah! now he's off on his hobby.

BOUN. Yes, we were mounted on chargers. I recollect upon one occasion, being seated firmly in my saddle for eight hours, and I don't recollect being able to sit down again firmly for a considerable period afterwards. [Exit.

RATAPLAN.

Allegretto marziale.

The musical score is written for voice and piano. It begins with a piano introduction in 3/8 time, marked 'Allegretto marziale'. The piano part features a rhythmic accompaniment of eighth notes. The vocal line enters with the lyrics: 'Yes, yes, in those mer-ry days, Yes, Yes, in those brill-iant days, we gather'd our laurels and rode on our bays, We gather'd our lau-rels and rode on our bays. I'. The score includes dynamic markings such as 'f' (forte) and 'p' (piano), and performance instructions like '8va...' (octave up) and 'rall.' (rallentando). The piece concludes with a final piano flourish.

Enter Cox.

COX Well this is pleasant. This comes of having one's hair cut. None of my hats will fit me. Never mind, this one appears to me to wobble about rather less than the others (puts on hat), and now I'm off! By the by, Bouncer, I wish to know how it is that I frequently find my apartment full of smoke?

BOUN Why—I suppose the chimney—

COX The chimney doesn't smoke tobacco. I'm speaking of tobacco smoke, how is that?

BOUN (confused) Why—I suppose—yes—that must be it—

COX At present I am entirely of your opinion—because I haven't the most distinct particle of an idea what you mean.

BOUN Why, the gentleman who has got the attic is hardly ever without a pipe in his mouth—and there he sits for hours, and puffs away into the fire-place.

COX Ah, then you mean to say that this gentleman's smoke, instead of emulating the example of all other sorts of smoke, and going up the chimney, thinks proper to affect a singularity by taking the contrary direction.

BOUN Why—

COX Then I suppose the gentleman you are speaking of, is the same individual that I invariably meet coming up stairs when I'm going down, and going down when I'm coming up?

BOUN Why—yes—I—

COX From the appearance of his outward man, I should unhesitatingly set him down as a gentleman connected with the printing interest.

BOUN Yes, sir, and a very respectable young gentleman as la. Good morning Colonel.

The first system of the musical score features a vocal line in the upper staff and a piano accompaniment in the lower staff. The key signature is two flats (B-flat and E-flat), and the time signature is 2/4. The tempo is marked 'Andante'. The piano part begins with a series of chords in the right hand, some with accents, and a bass line in the left hand. Dynamics include f (forte) and p (piano). The vocal line starts with a whole note 'two' followed by a series of eighth notes.

The second system continues the vocal and piano parts. The piano accompaniment features a dim. (diminuendo) marking and a ritard. (ritardando) marking. The tempo is marked appassionata. The piano part includes a p (piano) dynamic and a Ped. (pedal) marking with an asterisk. The vocal line continues with the lyrics 'one, and as we have been taught, Remain-der - none, that is remainder - nought. Take one from two. Take one from'.

BOUN. He's gone at last! I declare I was all in a tremble for fear Mr. Box should come in before Mr. Cox went out. Luckily they've never met yet—and what's more, they're not very likely to do so: for Mr. Box is hard at work at a newspaper office all day long, and doesn't come home till the morning, and Mr. Cox is busy making hats all day long, and doesn't come home till night; so that I'm getting double rent for my room, and neither of my lodgers are any the wiser for it. It was a happy thought of mine—that it was! But I haven't an instant to lose. First of all, let me put Mr. Cox's things out of Mr. Box's way. (He takes the three hats, Cox's dressing gown and slippers, opens door at L. and puts them in, then shuts door and locks it.) Now then, to put the key where Mr. Cox always finds it. (Puts the key on the ledge of the door, L.) Now then, to make the bed—and don't let me forget that what's the head of the bed for Colonel Cox, becomes the foot of the bed for Private Box—people's tastes do differ so. (Goes behind the curtains of the bed and seems to be making it—then appears with a very thin bolster in his hand.) The idea of Colonel Cox presuming to complain of such a bolster as this! [He disappears again behind curtains.]

BOX (without). Pooh—pooh! Why don't you keep your own side of the staircase, sir? (Enters at back dressed as a printer—puts his head out of door again, shouting.) It was as much your fault as mine, sir! I say, sir—it was as much your fault as mine, sir!

BOUN. (emerging from behind the curtains of bed) Lor, Mr. Box! what is the matter?

BOX. Mind your own business, Bomcer!

BOUN. Dear, dear, Mr. Box! what a temper you are in, to be sure! I declare you are quite pale in the face!

BOX. What color would you have a man to be, who has been setting up long leaders for a daily paper all night?

BOUN. But then, you've all day to yourself.

BOX (looking significantly at BOUNCER). So it seems! Far be it from me, Bomcer, to hurry your movements, but I think it right to acquaint you with my immediate intention of divesting myself of my garments and going to bed.

BOUN. Oh, certainly, Mr. Box! (going).

BOX. Stop! Can you inform me who the individual is that I invariably encounter going down stairs when I'm coming up, and coming up stairs when I'm going down?

BOUN. (Confused). Oh—yes—the gentleman in the attic, sir.

BOX. Oh! There's nothing particularly remarkable about him, except his hats. I meet him in all sorts of hats—white hats and black hats—hats with broad brims, and hats with narrow brims, hats with naps, and hats without naps—in short, I have come to the conclusion, that he must be individually and professionally associated with the batting interest.

BOUN. Yes, sir. And they tell me that's why he took the hatties! And, by-the-by, Mr. Box, he begged me to request of you, as a particular favor, that you would not smoke quite so much.

BOX. Did he? Then you may tell the gentle hatter, with my compliments, that if he objects to the effluvia of tobacco, he had better domesticate himself in some adjoining parish.

BOUN. You surely wouldn't deprive me of a lodger? [pathetically.]

BOX. It would come to precisely the same thing, Bomcer, because if I detect the slightest attempt to put my pipe out, I at once give you warning—that I shall give you warning at once.

BORN. Well, Mr. Box—do you want anything more of me?

BOX. On the contrary—I've had quite enough of you!

BORN. Well, if ever!

BOX. But there's one evolution I should much like to see you perform.

BOUN. What's that?

BOX. Right about face, quick march.

[Exit BOUN, r. c. d., slamming door after him.]

BOX. It's quite extraordinary, the trouble I always have to get rid of that venerable warrior. He knows I'm up all night, and yet he seems to set his face against my indulging in a horizontal position by day. Now, let me see—shall I take my nap before I swallow my breakfast, or shall I take my breakfast before I swallow my nap—I mean shall I swallow my nap before—no—never mind! I've got a rasher of bacon somewhere—(feeling in his pockets)—I've the most distinct and vivid recollection of having purchased a rasher of bacon—Oh, here it is—(produces it, wrapped in paper, and places it on the table)—and a penny roll. The next thing is to light the fire. Where are my lucifers? (looking on mantel piece, and taking box, opens it) Now 'pon my life, this is too bad of Bomcer—this is by several degrees too bad! I had a whole box full, three days ago, and there's only one! I'm perfectly aware that he purloins my coats and my candles, and my sugar—but I did think—Oh yes, I did think that my lucifers would be sacred (lights the fire—then takes down the gridiron, which is hanging over fire place). Bomcer has been using my gridiron! The last article of consumption that I cooked upon it was a pork chop, and now it is powerfully impregnated with the odor of red herrings! (places gridiron on fire and then, with a snarl, lays rasher of bacon on the gridiron) How sleepy I am, to be sure! I'd indulge myself with a nap, if there was anybody here to superintend the turning of my bacon (yawning again). Perhaps it will turn itself

COX I bought a mutton chop, so I shan't want my dinner. (Puts chop on table.) Good gracious! I've forgot the bread. Hallo! what's this? a roll, I declare. Come, that's lucky! Now then to light the fire. Holloa—seeing the lucifer box on table—who presumes to touch my box of lucifers? Why it's empty! I left one in it—I'll take my oath I did. Heyday! Why the fire is lighted! Where's the gridiron? On the fire I declare. And what's that on it? Bacon? Bacon it is! Well, now 'pon my life, there is a quiet coolness about Bouncer's proceedings that's almost amusing. He takes my last lucifer—my coals—and my gridiron, to cook his breakfast by! No, no—I can't stand this! Come out of that! (pokes fork into bacon, and puts it on a plate on the table, then places his chop on the gridiron, which he puts on the fire.) Now then for my breakfast things. (Taking key hung up L., opens door V., and goes out slamming the door after him, with a loud noise.)

BOX (suddenly showing his head from behind curtains) Come in! if it's you, Bouncer—you needn't be afraid. I wonder how long I've been asleep! (Suddenly recollecting.) Goodness gracious!—my bacon (leaps off bed and runs to the fireplace.) Halloa, what's this! A chop? Whose chop? Bouncer's, I'll be bound. He thought to cook his breakfast while I was asleep—with my coals, too—and my gridiron. Ha, ha! But where's my bacon? (Seeing it on table.) Here it is! Well, 'pon my life, Bouncer's going it! And shall I curb my indignation! Shall I falter in my vengeance? No! (digs the fork into the chop, opens window, and throws chop out—shuts window again.) So much for Bouncer's breakfast, and now for my own! (with fork he puts the bacon on the gridiron again.) I may as well lay my breakfast things. (Goes to mantel-piece at R., takes key out of one of the ornaments, opens door at R. and exits, slamming door after him.)

COX (putting his head in quickly at L. B.) Come in—come in (Opens door and enters with a small tray, on which are tea things, &c., which he places on drawers, L., and suddenly recollects.) Oh! goodness! my chop! (running to fire-place.) Holloa—what's this! The bacon again! Oh, pooh? Zounds—confound it—dash it—damn it—I can't stand this! (pokes fork into bacon, opens window, and flings it out, shuts window again, and returns to drawers for tea things, and encounters BOX coming from his cupboard with his tea things—they come down C. of stage together.)

 Box. (sitting down on chair, at one side of table, and following Cox's movements) Will you allow me to observe, if you have not had any exercise to-day, you'd better go out and take it!

Cox. I shall not do anything of the sort, sir. [seating himself at the table opposite Box]

 Box. Don't flatter yourself, sir. (Cox is about to break a piece of the roll off.)
 Halloo! that's my roll, sir.—[snatches it away—puts a pipe in his mouth, and lights it with a piece of tinder—puffs smoke across the table towards COX.]
 Cox. Halloo? What are you about, sir?
 Box. What am I about? I'm about to smoke.
 Cox. Wheugh! [goes to the window at Box's back, and flings it open.]
 Box. Halloo! (turning round) Put down that window, sir!
 Cox. Then put your pipe out, sir!
 Box. There! [puts pipe on the table.]
 Cox. There! [slam down window and re-seats himself.]
 Box. I shall retire to my pillow. (gets up, takes off his jacket, then goes towards bed and sits upon it.)
 Cox. (jumps up, goes to bed and sits down on R. of Box.) I beg your pardon, sir—I cannot allow any one to rumple my bed. [both rising]
 Box. Your bed! Hark ye, sir, can you fight?
 Cox. No, sir.
 Box. No! Then come on— [sparring at Cox.]
 Cox. Sit down, sir— or I'll instantly vociferate "Police!"
 Box. (seats himself—Box does the same) I say, sir—
 Cox. Well, sir?
 Box. Although we are doomed to occupy the same room for a few hours longer, I don't see any necessity for our cutting each other's throat, sir.
 Cox. Not at all. It's an operation that I should decidedly object to.
 Box. And, after all, I've no violent animosity against you, sir!
 Cox. Nor have I any rooted antipathy to you, sir.
 Box. Besides, it was all Bouncer's fault, sir. [gradually approaching chair]
 Cox. Entirely, sir.
 Box. Very well, sir!
 Cox. Very well, sir! [pause.]

Box. My intended! You mean your intended.

Cox. No, sir—yours!

Box. How can she be my intended, now that I am drowned?

Cox. You're no such thing, sir! I prefer presenting you to Penelope Ann. Permit me, then, to follow the generous impulse of my nature—I give her up to you.

Box. Benevolent being! I wouldn't rob you for the world (going). Good morning, sir!

BONCEER. Oh, no—they're not loaded.

Box. Then produce the murderous weapons instantly. [exit BONCEER, L. C.]

Box. I say, sir!

Cox. Well, sir.

Box. What's your opinion of duelling, sir?

Cox. I think it's a barbarous practice, sir.

Box. So do I, sir. To be sure, I don't so much object to it when the pistols are not loaded.

Cox. No: I daresay that does make some difference.

Box. And yet, sir—on the other hand—doesn't it strike you as rather a waste of time, for two people to keep firing pistols at one another with nothing in 'em.

Cox. No, sir—no more than any other harmless recreation.

Box. Hark ye! Why do you object to marry Penelope Ann!

Cox. Because, as I've already observed, I can't abide her. You'll be happy with her.

Box. Happy? me? with the consciousness that I have deprived you of such a treasure? No, no, Cox!

Cox. Don't think of me, Box—I shall be sufficiently rewarded by the knowledge of my Box's happiness.

Box. Don't be absurd, sir.

Cox. Then don't you be ridiculous, sir.

Box. I won't have her!

Cox. No more will I!

Box. I have it! Suppose we draw lots for the lady—eh, Mr. Cox!

Cox. That's fair enough, Mr. Box.

Box. Or, what say you to dice?

Cox. With all my heart! Dice by all means.

Box. (aside.) That's lucky! Bonceer's nephew left a pair here yesterday. He sometimes persuades me to have a throw for a trifle, and as he always throws sixes, I suspect they are good ones. (goes to cupboard at it and brings out dice box.)

Cox. (aside.) I've no objection at all to dice. I lost one pound seventeen and sixpence, at last Barnet Races, to a very gentlemanly-looking man, who had a most peculiar knack of throwing sixes—I suspected they were loaded, so I gave him another half-crown and he gave me the dice. (takes dice out of his pocket—use lucifer box as substitute for dice-box, which is on the table.)

Box. Now then, sir!

Cox. I'm ready, sir! (they seat themselves at opposite sides of the table.) Will you lead off, sir?

Box. As you please, sir. The lowest throw, of course, wins Penelope Ann!

Cox. Of course, sir!

COX. Agreed! There's my hand upon it—
 BOX. And mine—(about to shake hands—a postman's knock heard at the street door.)
 COX. Hallo! Postman again!
 BOX. Postman yesterday—postman to-day—
 Enter BOUNCER, D. L. C.
 BOUN. Another letter, Colonel Cox—twopence more!
 COX. I forgive you again! (taking letter.) Another trifle from Margate. (Opens letter—starts.) Goodness gracious!
 BOX (snatching letter—starts.) Gracious goodness!
 COX (snatching letter again—reads.) "Happy to inform you, false alarm."
 BOX (overlooking.) "Sudden squall—boat upset—Mrs. Wiggins, your intended"—
 COX. "Picked up by steambot"—
 BOX. "Carried into Boulogne"—
 COX. "Returned here this morning"—
 BOX. "Will start by early train to-morrow"—
 COX. "And be with you at ten o'clock exact."
 [Both simultaneously pull out their watches.]
 BOX. Cox, I congratulate you—
 COX. Box, I give you joy!
 BOX. I'm sorry that most important business at the Colonial office will prevent my witnessing the truly happy meeting between you and your intended. Good morning.
 COX. (stopping him.) It's obviously for me to retire. Not for worlds would I disturb the rapturous meeting between you and your intended. Good morning!
 BOX. You'll excuse me, sir—but our last arrangement was that she was your intended.
 COX. No, yours!
 BOX. Yours!
 Together. Yours! [Ten o'clock strikes—noise of an omnibus.]
 BOX. Ha! What's that! A cab's drawn up at the door! (Running to window.) No—it's a twopenny omnibus!
 COX (leaning over Box's shoulder). A lady's got out—
 BOX. There's no mistaking that majestic person—it's Penelope Ann!
 COX. Your intended!
 BOX. Yours!
 COX. Yours!
 BOX. Hark—she's coming up stairs. [Both run to door, L. C., and eagerly listen.]
 COX. Shut the door!
 [They slam the door, and both lean against it with their backs.]
 BOUN. (without, and knocking.) Colonel!
 COX (shouting). I've just stepped out!
 BOX. So have I!
 BOUN. (without). Mr. Cox! (pushing at the door—COX and BOX redouble their efforts to keep the door shut.) Open the door! It's only me—Sergeant Bouncer.

COX. Only you? Then where's the lady?
 BOUN. Gone!
 COX. Upon your honor!
 BOX. As a Militiaman?
 BOUN. Yes; and she's left a note for Brigadier Cox.
 COX. Give it to me.
 BOUN. Then open the door!
 COX. Put it under! (A letter is put under the door, COX picks up the letter and opens it.) Goodness gracious!
 BOX (snatching letter). Gracious goodness! (Cox snatches the letter, and runs forward, followed by BOX.)
 COX (reading). "Dear Mr. Cox—Pardon my candor"—
 BOX (looking over, and reading). "But being convinced that our feelings, like our nges, do not reciprocate"—
 COX. "I hasten to apprise you of my immediate union"—
 BOX. "With Mr. Knox."
 COX. Huzza!
 BOX. Three cheers for Knox. Ha, ha, ha! (Tosses the letter in the air, and begins dancing—COX does the same.)
 BOUN. (putting his head in at door). The little second floor back room is quite ready!
 COX. I don't want it.
 BOX. No more do I!
 COX. What shall part us?
 BOX. What shall tear us asunder?
 COX. Box.
 BOX. Cox. (About to embrace—BOX stops, seizes COX's hand, and looks eagerly in his face.) You'll excuse the apparent insanity of the remark, but the more I gaze on your features, the more I'm convinced that you're my long lost brother.
 COX. The very observation I was going to make to you!
 BOX. Ah—tell me—in mercy tell me—have you such a thing as a strawberry mark on your left arm?
 COX. No!
 BOX. Then it is he!
 COX. Of course we stop where we are!
 BOX. Of course.
 COX. For, between you and me, I'm rather partial to this house.
 BOX. So am I—I begin to feel quite at home in it.
 COX. Everything so clean and comfortable.
 BOX. And I'm sure the master of it, from what I have seen of him, is very anxious to please.
 COX. So he is—and I vote, Box, that we stick by him!
 BOX. Agreed!

"MY HAND UPON IT."

(FINALE.)

The musical score is set in 2/4 time with a key signature of one sharp (F#). It features two vocal parts: COX and BOUNCER, and a piano accompaniment. The tempo is marked 'Moderato' for the first section and 'rall.' for the second. The lyrics are: 'My hand up - on it, join but yours; A - gree the house will hold us, And two good lodg - ers Boun-cer gets, He'll in his arms en - fold us. Oh yes! yes! to arms.....'
