THE GLEANER'S SLUMBER SONG.

UNDER the hedge-row, out of the sun,
Slumber, my darling, till work is done;
I must go gleaning over the lea,
Gleaning and thinking, dearest, of thee.

Sleep, my darling, and have no fear,
God is watching, and I am near.

God is so gracious that He hath spread
Grass for thy pillow, shade for thy head;
Birds He shall send thee sweetly to sing,
Breezes to fan thee with airy wing.

Sleep, my darling, &c.

When I am feeble, wrinkled and worn,
Thou shalt go reaping over the corn,
Thou shalt go reaping among the men;
I shall be weary of gleaning then.

Sleep, my darling, &c.
