The musical score consists of six staves of Gregorian chant notation. Each staff begins with a large, ornate initial letter: 'D' for the first, 'S' for the second, 'R.' for the third, 'P' for the fourth, 'B' for the fifth, and 'I' for the sixth. The notation is based on a single-line staff with vertical stems and diamond-shaped note heads. Various rhythmic patterns are created by combining different stem directions and note head shapes. Some staves begin with a 'C' or 'G' clef, and others end with a 'P' or 'B'. Small marks like asterisks (*) and plus signs (+) are scattered throughout the music, likely indicating performance instructions or specific note heads. The paper is heavily aged, with significant yellowing and foxing, particularly along the right edge and bottom. The overall layout is that of a historical printed music book.

Glory to God in the highest, peace to his people on earth.
We praise him, we bless him, we magnify him, we honour him, we glorify him, we give him thanks, we exalt him, we hymn him, we sing to him, we rejoice in him, we exult over him, we magnify his name, we extol his memory, we call upon him, we invoke him, we implore him, we beseech him, we entreat him, we implore him, we beseech him, we entreat him,
