MARCHING SONG OF DEMOCRACY

In "A Backward Glance o'er Travel'd Roads" (Leaves of Grass)
Walt Whitman wrote:

The New World receives with joy the poems of the antique, with European feudalism's rich fund of epics, plays, ballads— . . . and though, if I were ask'd to name the most precious bequest to current American civilization from all the hitherto ages, I am not sure but I would name those old and less old songs ferried from east to west—some serious words and debits remain; some acrid considerations demand a hearing. Of the great poems receiv'd from abroad and from the ages, and to-day enveloping and penetrating America; is there one that is consistent with these United States, or essentially applicable to them as they are and are to be? Is there one whose underlying basis is not a denial and insult to democracy?

When a boy of 16 or 17 I was greatly struck by the truth of this assertion, not merely as regards America and literature, but as applying no less to Australia and the other younger Democracies, and to all the arts; and I felt a keen longing to play my part in the creation of music that should reflect the easy-going, happy-go-lucky, yet robust hopefulness and the undisciplined individualistic energy of the athletic out-of-door Anglo-Saxon newer nations.

When in Paris during the Exhibition of 1900 I happened unexpectedly upon the public statue of George Washington when strolling about the streets one day, and somehow or other this random occurrence galvanized in me a definite desire to typify the buoyant on-march of optimistic humanitarian democracy in a musical composition in which a forward-striding host of comradely affectionate athletic humanity might be heard "chanting the great pride of man in himself," the underlying urges to be heroic but not martial, exultant but not provocative, passionate but not dramatic, energetic but not fierce, athletic but not competitive.

My original plan was to write my "Marching Song of Democracy" for voices and whistlers only (no instruments), and have it performed by a chorus of men, women and children singing and whistling to the rhythmic accompaniment of their tramping feet as they marched along in the open air; but a later realization of the need for instrumental color inherent in the character of the music from the first ultimately led me to score it for the concert-hall. An athletic out-of-door spirit must, however, be understood to be behind the piece from start to finish.

The vocal parts are sung to "nonsense syllables" such as children use in their thoughtless singing; firstly, because I thought that a more varied and instinctive vocalism could be obtained without the use of words in music of a polyphonic nature (a freely-moving many-voicedness is the natural musical counterpart of individualistic democratic tendencies), and secondly, because I did not want to pin the music down, at each moment, to the precise expression of such definite and concrete thoughts as words inevitably convey, but aimed at devoting it, rather, to a less "mental" immersion in a general central emotional mood.

The musical material dates from the summer of 1901 (Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany), December, 1908 (Stawell, Vic., Wangaratta, Vic., Albury, N. S. W., Australia), and the summer of 1915 (New York City, U. S. A.); the final scoring was made in the summer of 1915 and the spring and summer of 1916 (New York City).

The following quotations from Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" may further serve as a sort of rough index to the emotional background of the work.

PERCY GRAINGER.

The following excerpts are reprinted from the authorized edition of "Complete Leaves of Grass," published by Mitchell Kennerley, by kind permission of the publisher.

Democracy! near at hand to you a throat is now inflating itself and joyfully singing.	} From	"Starting from Paumanok"

Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms, Strong and content I travel the open road. * * *	}	"Song of the Open Road"
The cheerful voice of the public road, the gay fresh sentiment of the road. * * *
Now if a thousand perfect men were to appear it would not amaze me, Now if a thousand beautiful forms of women appear'd it would not astonish me. Now I see the secret of the making of the best persons, It is to grow in the open air and to eat and sleep with the earth. * * *	}	"Birds of Passage"
Myself and mine gymnastic ever, To stand the cold or heat, to take good aim with a gun, to sail a boat, to manage horses, to beget superb children. * * *
Weave in, weave in, my hardy life, Weave yet a soldier strong and full for great campaigns to come, * * *	}	"From Noon to Starry Night"
* * * The death-envelop'd march of peace as well as war goes on. * * *
The sun and stars that float in the open air, The apple-shaped earth and we upon it, surely the drift of them is something grand. * * *	}	"A Song for Occupations"
I am an acme of things accomplish'd, and I am encloser of things to be. * * *
Immense have been the preparations for me, * * *	}	"Song of Myself"
 * * *

Cycles ferried my cradle, rowing and rowing like cheerful boatmen.
For room to me stars kept aside in their own rings.

All forces have been steadily employ'd to complete and delight me,
Now on this spot I stand with my robust soul.

This day before dawn I ascended a hill and look'd at the crowded heaven.

And I said to my spirit When we become the enfolders of those orbs, and the pleasure and knowledge of every thing in them, shall we be filled and satisfied then?

And my spirit said No, we but level that lift to pass and continue beyond.

* * *

(O something pernicious and dread!
Something far away from a puny and pious life!
Something unproved! Something in a trance!
Something escaped from the anchorage and driving free.)

* * *

I too am not a bit tamed, I too am untranslatable,
I sound my barbaric yawp over the roofs of the world.

* * *

O glad, exulting, culminating song!

Marches of victory—man disenthral'd—the conqueror at last,
Hymns to the universal God from universal man—all joy!

Women and men in wisdom, innocence and health—all joy!
Riotous laughing bacchanals fill'd with joy!
War, sorrow, suffering gone— * * * nothing but joy left!

Enough to merely be! enough to breathe!
Joy! joy! all over joy!

Let us go forth refresh'd amid the day,
Cheerfully tallying life, walking the world, the real,
Nourish'd henceforth by our celestial dream.

TO THE CHORUS, re "NONSENSE SYLLABLES."

All the vowels should be pronounced as in Italian with the exception of "u", which should be sounded as "u" in English "rum." Thus "rum" should sound like English "rum," "pum" should rhyme with English "plum."

The vowel "i" should always be sounded long, like "ee" in English "flee." Thus "pim" should rhyme with English "dream," "rim" should sound like English "ream," "dim" like English "deem," "tim" like English "team." "hm" stands for a sharply accented "h" occurring in the middle of a continuous humming ("m").

N.B. You can alter the nonsense syllables to suit your own comfort as long as you retain their general characteristics.

Vocal staves for Soprano (S.), Alto (A.), Tenor (T.), and Bass (B.). Each staff contains a vocal line with lyrics: "pa" for Soprano and Alto, "da" for Tenor, and "pom" for Bass. The music is in 3/4, 4/4, 5/4, and 3/4 time signatures. A dynamic marking of f is present at the beginning of the Bass line.

Piano accompaniment for the first system, starting at measure 30. It features a f dynamic marking and the instruction "Full band". The music is marked "heavy" and "louden". The score includes both treble and bass clef staves with various chords and melodic lines.

Four empty vocal staves for Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass, each with a 3/4 time signature. The staves are blank, indicating that the vocalists are silent during this section.

Piano accompaniment for the second system, starting at measure 34. It features a ff dynamic marking. The music is marked "heavy" and "louden". The score includes both treble and bass clef staves with various chords and melodic lines.
